OFFICER IS KILLED AND SLAYER SHOT IN RAID ON STILL

Prohibition Agent W. D. Dorsey Dies From Wound Inflicted by John Farmer, Alleged Distiller.

OFFICERS ARE RUSHED TO SCENE OF KILLING

Farmer Wounded by Ed Carpenter, Driver for the "Dry" Agent, and Is Expected to Die.

W. D. Dorsey, federal prohibition agent, was instantly killed, and Ed Carpenter slightly wounded on Sunday morning while destroying a still found on the premises of John Farmer, in White county, near Cleveland, Ga., according to the information received by Internal Revenue Collector D. J. Gantt shortly after the shooting. Farmer is in a serious condition in Gainesville, and is not expected to recover from the bullet wound in the stomach, administered by Carpenter.

According to the information received in Atlanta, Dorsey had asked Carpenter, who often serves as a driver for revenue agents in this section, to accompany him to Farmer's house to carry on a search for a still. He had secured a search warrant from Commissioner Dunlap in Gainesville. Farmer made no attempt to hinder the search, and the still was found in his house, it is stated. While Dorsey and his driver were inspecting the still in the yard he slipped back in the house, secured his Winchester rifle and commenced shooting, officials here were informed.

Dorsey Is Killed.

After Dorsey had been killed Farmer opened fire on Carpenter, inflicting a flesh wound in the chest before Carpenter shot him in the stomach.

According to Collector Gantt, Farmer is the son of Marion Farmer, both of whom, he says, have been giving the federal authorities continual trouble by illicit distilling. Three cases are pending against the wounded man.

Immediately upon receiving the report, Collector Gantt sent a party of officers, under Scott Jackson and J. O. Lay, to the scene.

Scott Jackson, one of the men who had been rushed to the scene, on his return to Atlanta last night said that Farmer lived only a short distance from Dorsey's home and that Dorsey and Carpenter decided to walk over. They found Farmer on a bed in the front room. Explaining the cause of their visit and reading the warrant at the request of Farmer, who said that he could not read, they readily secured his permission to search the house.

Still Is Located.

Passing through the front room, they searched the kitchen, then a shed room adjoining. On the return to the kitchen they noticed a slide door that had been overlooked. It is alleged that they found the still in a small room connected by this door. Farmer had accompanied them until this point, assisting them by unlocking the door of the shed room. At this point, however, he disappeared, and, Jackson asserts, reappeared suddenly with a Winchester rifle.

Without speaking, he opened fire on Dorsey, shooting him through the neck. Dorsey fell, death evidently coming instantly. It is alleged that Farmer then turned his attention to Carpenter, firing five times. Carpenter emptied his pistol at Farmer, who ran into another room.

Running out of ammunition, Carpenter went for help. He returned with the sheriff, and they took Farmer without resistance to the jail in Cleveland. Finding that he was seriously injured, they later removed him to the hospital in Gainesville.

The still has been destroyed.

ASSIGNMENT OF CARS EXPLAINED BY BOARD

Washington, June 13.—The interstate commerce commission replying today to a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Harding, of Ohio, now the republican presidential nominee, asking by what authority it issued its car assignment order of last April 15, said the order was based on the interstate commerce act. It added that its authority to take such action had been upheld by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

Under the order cars supplied to coal mines for the transportation of fuel for the railroads could not be charged against the distributive shares of cars to those mines. Senator Harding objected to the order on the ground that it was preferential to the railroads as against some of the mines and the public.

The commission said that the passing of the roads from federal control and the suspension and the fuel administration rules, together with the transportation conditions and shortage of fuel on hand at the time created an emergency in which it "acted with its best judgment." It added that "no other definite rule or practical plan has been suggested by the interested parties in the many conferences that have been held on the subject."

ARGENTINE SUGAR FOR UNITED STATES

Buenos Aires, June 13.—Based on the domestic price at which Frederick J. Stimson, United States ambassador to Argentina, obtained 14,000 tons of sugar for the account of the United States, plus the transportation cost, it is estimated the sugar will be landed in New York at 15 cents a pound. It probably will require five ships to transport the sugar.

In addition to the sugar obtained by Ambassador Stimson for the United States government, it is learned that private interests have contracted for a total of 50,000 tons for exportation to the United States.

Bubonic Plague Causing Alarm At Pensacola

One Man Dead of Dread Disease and the City Has Ordered Warfare on Rats.

Pensacola, Fla., June 13.—Following the death here on Friday night of George Gardina, a clerk in a general merchandise store here, of what the state laboratory officials declare to have been a case of bubonic plague, a clean-up campaign will be inaugurated in the city today and warfare on the rats will begin.

A special meeting of the city commission has been called for Monday morning to discuss the situation, and Dr. Williams, of the United States marine hospital service, is on his way from New Orleans to take charge of the campaign.

He is bringing with him a large quantity of anti-plague serum for use if necessary. So far the case of Gardina is the only suspicious one found. According to the statement, Gardina attended a dance Wednesday night, and was taken ill the following morning, dying 24 hours later. Dr. Herbert Bryan, his physician, being suspicious, took blood specimens and sent them to the state laboratory. On examination, it was found that Gardina had the plague. Dr. Mallory Kennedy, the port physician, and the United States marine hospital authorities were notified immediately, and every precaution is being taken to prevent any further spread of the disease, although the case is believed to have been a sporadic one, originating from a rat from a ship from some Mexican port.

Public health officials already have started a survey of the city to localize what might be regarded as a dangerous area. They have determined upon a thorough extermination of rats and will take especial precautions to see that no ships tie up along the docks without proper rat guards.

Commerce from this port will not be interfered with, it was stated, but all vessels and all freight cars leaving here will be fumigated and all ports will be requested to enforce fumigation regulations on all ships that arrive from Pensacola. Vessels that have been on the high seas seven or more days en route from Pensacola to other ports will not be subject to quarantine on arrival at destination, according to health officials here.

Officials here expressed confidence the plague would not attain alarming proportions.

Children Saved After Drifting For Many Hours

Four Little Ones Brave Lake Erie in Rowboat in Search of Treasure Island.

Detroit, Mich., June 13.—Four youthful explorers, aged 3, 6, 9 and 11 years, who set sail from Lakeside, Mich., Saturday in a frail row boat to search for treasure islands in Lake Erie, were picked up Sunday 30 miles off shore, after having been adrift for 25 hours.

The children, three boys and a girl, sons and a niece of Merwin Daso, of Toledo, were rescued by a passenger steamer. A prayer of thanks was offered by 1,500 passengers when they had been transferred safely from their frail craft.

Toledo, Ohio, June 13.—Sunburned and tired, but happy in the fact that they were nearing home, Mervin Daso, 9; Richard Daso, 6; Robert Daso, 3, and Virginia Hillmer, 12, arrived here tonight on board the steamer City of Toledo after having been lost on Lake Erie in an open boat for more than twenty-seven hours. The children drifted out on to the lake from Lakeside, Mich., yesterday morning while playing at the docks.

When the boat docked here tonight the children were in the center of an admiring crowd of 1,500 passengers. Little Robert was the coolest and most collected one of the crowd and probably the only one whose eyes were not wet when he was restored to the arms of his mother.

In telling the story of the trip across the lake Mervin said that his 6-year-old brother fell overboard at one time and later the girl did likewise. He rescued both of them with a rope. Then to make sure of no more trouble he tied little Robert to the bottom of the boat. He was still in that position when rescued. Two fish which he had caught for his turtle at home were grasped in his hands. The rescue of the children terminated a search of the lake by scores of launches and motor boats on which police, marine men and friends of the family participated.

JOHN F. SCANLON DEAD; TOURED WITH BLAINE

Chicago, June 13.—John F. Scanlon, 80 years old, a special agent of the treasury department at Chicago, died at his home last night of pneumonia. He was one of the founders of the Catholic Order of Foresters and was head of that organization for many years.

Mr. Scanlon, who was the author of several books on the tariff, toured the country with James G. Blaine during the latter's candidacy for the presidency, speaking on tariff issues. During the civil war he was one of the officers in charge of Camp Douglas.

ARMY MOTOR CONVOY TO CROSS CONTINENT

Washington, June 13.—The army motor transport convoy which is to go to Los Angeles via the Bankhead national highway through the south and along the border will leave Washington tomorrow after ceremonies at the zero milestone on the Ellipse south of the White house.

The first stop of the convoy will be made at Richmond, Va., tomorrow night. There will be a total of 46 trucks and 6 motorcycles in the train, and these will be manned by 30 officers and 100 men.

POLITICAL EYES TURNED TOWARD BUCKEYE STATE

Nomination of Harding, of Ohio, Places Cox, of Same State, at Head of Democratic Possibilities.

COUNTRY USUALLY GOES AS DOES STATE OF OHIO

Thought That Ohio Will Be Big Battleground of the Coming Campaign. McCoombs Vociferously Booming Cox.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, June 13.—Political eyes front on Ohio. The nomination of Warren G. Harding, senior senator from that state, assures the nomination of Governor James M. Cox, of the same state, either for first or second place on the democratic ticket. As Ohio goes, so goes the nation, according to political history. There the big battle of the coming campaign will certainly be waged.

It happened that, as the last lieutenants in the Harding movement were vacating the hotel lobbies in Chicago Sunday, the advance guard of the democratic Cox boomers moved in. About the first political chieftains I ran into at the Congress were William F. McCombs, 1912 chairman of the democratic national committee, and National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, of New York. Both of these gentlemen were vociferously booming Cox.

And with these tidings abroad Will Hays and Charles Hilles, of the republican national committee, began their preparations for opening the Harding campaign immediately. Republican leaders are not attempting to disguise their belief that the coming campaign is not to be a runaway. Privately they say that they have in Harding a strong candidate, who has not much of a record as anything but a good, staunch republican "of the McKinley type." He has not the constructive mind nor personal appeal of a Harrison, a Blaine or a Roosevelt.

To Have Able Cabinet.

He goes into the race, however, as a man pledged to surround himself with the ablest men in his party for cabinet posts, "conscious," as one of his intimate friends put it today, "of his limitations and the difficulty of his task."

Harding has told Hays and other members of the national committee that he believes a virulent campaign should begin at once. Personally, he doesn't wish to do much "barnstorming around the country." He believes that the presidency should be "put back upona more dignified basis." So, unless campaign developments change, he will confine himself to front-porch meetings with delegations at his home in Marion, Ohio, and make some ten or a dozen major speeches in leading centers of the nation.

Democratic leaders declare that they will force a change in that plan. They say that with the nomination of either Cox or McAdoo, or, perchance, a ticket including both, the democrats will start a swing of their favorites that will "force Harding out of seclusion." That, of course, remains to be seen.

Nomination of Harding may not have been all that the republican party as a whole may have desired. Certainly it has left its sore spots and some worry. Johnson and Borah are uncomfortably quiet, although Johnson is said to have telephoned his congratulations to Harding.

The Old Guard's Cards.

The irritation at the outcome in the Wood and Lowden camps is directed at the obvious machinations of the senatorial old guard clique that effected the Harding coup. While these machinations appeared somewhat bald to the neutral observer, certainly it must be said that the old guard showed its cards in the open.

When Harding's manager, Harry Daugherty, some months ago was quoted as having said the nomination would be determined in Harding's favor by a small group of leaders some night during the convention, he forecast wisely. That's exactly what happened, but everyone knew what was going on.

And, what's more, it wouldn't have happened had it not been for $5,000 which originated in Governor Lowden's campaign fund and which were disclosed by a senate investigating committee in the bank accounts of two of the Missouri delegates. That finding won Harding the nomination. Before that the old line support would have gone to Lowden. After that, they became increasingly afraid of Lowden as a candidate, and, as forecast many times in these dispatches, having made up their minds in advance to kill off Wood and Johnson as their first objective, they turned to the "dark horse."

That sums up the situation. Harding will make a strong candidate. Of fine appearance, an excellent speaker, and assuring, as he will, the strongest cabinet he could pick, he will appeal powerfully to the business elements of the country.

McAdoo and Harding.

As a matter of fact, with the nomination of McAdoo by the democrats, the campaign might well be expected to prove a quasi "class affair," with Harding backed by business and McAdoo backed by the workers.

The Harding-Coolidge combinations will not do much toward attracting the old Irish democratic vote, which the republican leaders were expecting to draw this year. McAdoo, on the other hand, has a strong appeal to this element.

Five states now stand out in relief as the campaign opens with the assured nomination of either McAdoo or Cox and possibly a ticket

Harding's Running Mate and His Wife

GOVERNOR AND MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

SECOND BAPTIST TO RAISE $75,000

Money Will Be Used for Enlargements and Improvements of Church Property in Near Future.

The Second Baptist church has been making extensive plans for enlargement and improvement of its building, to cost $75,000. For more than a year these plans have been under consideration, but activity was delayed because of the Southern Baptist $75,000,000 campaign, in which the Second Baptist church bore a leading part, pledging $222,000.

With the completion of this great work interest in the contemplated improvements was revived, the church feeling that its enlarged program for Baptist missionary and educational work should be matched by an equally ambitious local program.

Recently the matter has been agitated by the men's club, a virile organization of the church, of which Colonel F. J. Paxon is president. A committee was appointed, of which J. G. Dodson is chairman and Walter R. Brown, who led the church two years ago in paying off a long-standing debt, is vice chairman.

Members of Committee.

Other members of the committee are Robert E. Harvey, who was organizer of the successful 75 million drive; F. S. Etheridge, vice chairman of the board of deacons; E. L. Harling, treasurer of the church; J. S. Spalding, superintendent of the Sunday school; J. S. McCullough, Colonel F. J. Paxon and Dr. Henry Alford Porter. To this committee Mrs. Frances B. Chase, president of the Women's society, and Mrs. F. J. Paxon, president of the Business Women's league, were added in order that the womanhood of the church might be fully represented.

The committee secured a specialist in church architecture and presented his recommendations to a large gathering of the men of the church and later to the board of deacons and the Women's society. The recommendations were in the main approved and have been unanimously adopted by the church.

The work will be carried out as rapidly as incoming funds will permit, and first attention will be given to the needs of the Sunday school. A new Sunday school building was erected about ten years ago, but is now inadequate for the growing life of the school. A second story will be built over part of the present Sunday school building, and interior changes will be made so as to provide sufficient space for each department to expand to full strength, and give space for a Sunday school of 1,500.

Will Install Galleries.

In addition, a new steam heating plant will be installed, galleries will be run about the church auditorium and seated with opera chairs, increasing the capacity of the building by 500. The plan calls also for a new organ. Provision will be made for a ladies' parlor, wwith a thoroughly up-to-date kicthen adjoining, and for a gymnasium and social room for the young people.

It is estimated that the whole plan will require an expenditure of $75,000 or more, and it is to be called "The Seventy-five Thousand Dollar Campaign."

Dr. Porter and the entire church are enthusiastic over the new outlook and enlarged opportunity for their work which the execution of the plans will provide. An effort is to be made in the near future to secure subscriptions covering the entire amount.

Gov. Coolidge Fears Landlord May Raise Rent

Because of Statement That Governor Pays $35 a Month for Half House, Whereas He Only Pays $32.

Boston, June 13.—The plans of Governor Calvin S. Coolidge, republican vice presidential nominee, to go to Amherst for the opening of commencement week of his alma mater and then his home in Northampton, were changed today upon receipt of a telegram from the Massachusetts delegates saying they would arrive here tomorrow afternoon and parade to the statehouse. The governor decided to remain in Boston to receive them, after which he will journey to his home.

Governor Coolidge, as he greeted newspaper men this morning, made a whimsical complaint of a statement published in a local paper that he paid $35 a month rent for his half house in Northampton, whereas he actually pays $32. He said that if the landlord should happen to see the story the rent might be raised to correspond.

During the day the governor was besieged with callers, who came to extend their congratulations on his nomination. His secretary, Henry F. Long, continually brought him telegrams from a host of the friends and prominent republicans.

William H. Taft in his message to the nominee said:

"I congratulate you most heartily and sincerely on your nomination as vice president. The ticket of Harding and Coolidge will sweep the country, and its certain victory means a useful and successful republican administration of the affairs of this country the next four years."

Governor Clement, of Vermont, was the first governor to congratulate him, telephoning from Rutland last night. Herbert Hoover telegraphed his warmest personal congratulations.

The governor was the target during the day for a battery of movie men and photographers. With Mrs. Coolidge he went for a short walk in the vicinity of their hotel in the forenoon, and in the afternoon he took a three-mile hike. He is not enthusiastic over any particular sport and finds most of his recreation in walking. In the evening he and Mrs. Coolidge attended church services.

Governor Coolidge talked over the telephone today to his two boys, John and Calvin, Jr., who are at Northampton. They said they were pleased with their father's nomination, but considered it a matter of course.

BAINBRIDGE COLBY WILSON SPOKESMAN

Washington, June 13.—Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, was being discussed today as the possible spokesman for President Wilson at the democratic national convention at San Francisco.

The ticket headed by Mr. Colby, according to official returns from the city-wide primary as announced today by John B. Colpoys, secretary of the central democratic committee, won by an overwhelming majority over the so-called Bryan democratic ticket. The vote for the Colby ticket was 2,865, against 356 for the opposition.

Because of Mr. Colby's relative short residence in Washington, the opposing delegation made strenuous opposition to the inclusion of his name.

BULLETS ARE FIRED INTO ESSAD PASHA

The Head of the Albanian Delegation Assassinated in Paris by an Albanian Student.

Paris, June 13.—Essard Pasha, head of the Albanian delegation in Paris and former provisional president of Albania, was assassinated here today. Three shots were fired at him by an Albanian student, two of them taking effect.

Essad Pasha was emerging from the Hotel Continental, in the Rue Castiglione, when he was suddenly confronted by a young man who later gave his name as Rustem Avent, and said he was an Albanian student. Without uttering a word, Rustem fired two shots which struck Essad Pasha in the chest and another shot which went wild. Essad sank to the ground. He was picked up and taken to his bedroom, where he died shortly afterwards.

The assassin was arrested by a waiter. He told the police he arrived in Paris on May 31, and declared the crime was not premeditated. Recognizing Essad Pasha on the street, who he held to be responsible for the sufferings of Albania, he said he felt a sudden impulse and fired the shots. Rustem termed Essad "the Albanian dictator."

Essad Pasha had a picturesque career. Regarded by all the European governments in 1913 merely as an Albanian outlaw, three years later he was recognized by these same powers as provisional president and minister of war of Albania following the downfall of Prince William, of Wied. Essad's selection as president of Albania was a reward for his services to the allies early in the war in the fighting against Austria.

At one time Essad was commandant of Gendarmes at Constantinople. His brother having been killed by order of Sultan Abdul Hamid, Essad conceived a hatred of the sultan which led him, when the Turkish parliament in 1909 decided on the deposition of Abdul, to solicit and receive permission to notify the sultan of his downfall and arrest him.

Recently an insurrection was begun against the Italians in Albania, and it was only a few days ago that The Temps of Rome reported an agreement had been concluded between Essad and the government at Belgrade by which Essad would use his influence in Albania in favor of Jugo-Slavia. In return for this, the report added, Jugo-Slavia was to support the Albanians and appoint Essad governor of Albania for life, the administration of the country to pass to Jugo-Slavia on the death of Essad.

Body of James G. Blaine And That of His Wife Transferred to Maine

Augusta, Me., June 13.—The bodies of James G. Blaine and his wife, Harriet Stanwood Blaine, brought here from Washington, under the auspices of the state of Maine, were buried in Forest Grove cemetery today. The legislature at its last session, in accepting the Blaine house in this city as an executive mansion in memory of Lieutenant Walker Blaine Beale, grandson of the statesman, who was killed at St. Mihiel, made provision for the removal of the bodies from Rock Creek cemetery, Washington.

The committal service was conducted by Dr. James H. Ecob, pastor of the South Parish Congregational Church of Augusta, who was Mr. Blaine's pastor. Members of the James Fitzgerald post, American Legion, served as the active bearers.

The lot in which the bodies were buried was purchased by Mrs. Blaine in 1896, three years after her husband's death. The members of the Blaine family present at the services were James G. Blaine II., Mrs. Harriet Blaine Beale and Mrs. Emmons Blaine.

Third Party Movement Likely to Be Launched After Democrats Meet

NEGROES FAVORED BY G. O. P. MACHINE

Stamp of Approval Put on Negro Leadership and Negro Party Domination in South.

By James A. Hollomon.

Chicago, June 13.—(Special.)—Chicago is practically normal again. Most of the delegates have left, except the few who remained to go before the republican national committee tomorrow.

Southern republicans generally are up in arms at the move made by the convention last night to cut down delegate representation from "the black belt" in future conventions. There is more psychology than practice in this movement, however. It was inaugurated to appease the white republican states of the north during an election campaign. There is no real determination among the machine bosses to alter the convention enrolment rules.

By every act the G. O. P. machine during the past two weeks placed the official stamp of approval upon negro leadership and negro party domination in the south. This was made evident first by the Warren resolution before the committee in effect condemning any effort to exclude negroes from free party participation, aimed directly at the various so-called "lily white" movements, and later it was accentuated by Lodge's recognition of Henry Lincoln Johnson as the national committeeman from Georgia over the viva voce protest of the full convention in session. The party is therefore perceptibly split in the south and many of the old progressives from among the white citizenry of the south will return to the party of their fathers in November.

The fact is, however loud and long the G. O. P. machine bosses may proclaim party unity, the republican party is split into a number of distinctive factions, and the factional incriminations indulged in during the past two weeks have left wounds that will not rapidly heal.

From the consensus o republican leaders, this is not a "republican year," as many have declared it to be. The democrats not only have as good chance as they have ever had, but with the republican congressional record as a basis of attack they have every opportunity for a winning drive, and the republicans know it. That is why they were afraid to put Lowden over, and were also afraid of the "military" cry with Wood. Johnson had no chance from the beginning and both he and Borah are on a rapidly receding tide so far as their own party is concerned, the example of which might be a useful lesson to some so-called democrats.

Bomb Exploded As Tenor Caruso WasAbouttoSing

Several Members of the Chorus Injured During Performance at National Theater.

Havana, Cuba, June 13.—Several members of the chorus and a number of persons in the audience were injured, one of them seriously, when a bomb was exploded during a performance at the National theater this afternoon. The explosion occurred in the early part of the second act of the opera "Aida," shortly before Enrico Caruso was due to appear for his last performance here. Panic was narrowly averted, largely through the coolness of the director and several musicians, who played the Cuban national anthem.

The police have arrested the theater's painter on suspicion, but have been unable to find a motive for the outrage.

Caruso Guarded.

Hampton, N. Y., June 13.—A pick-and-shovel brigade of private detectives tomorrow will begin a systematic search of the 100-acre estate of Enrico Caruso here in a final effort to discover the hiding place of half a million dollars' worth of jewels that were stolen from the tenor's home several days ago. The detectives plan to dig up every square yard of earth on the grounds, they announced, being confident that the missing jewels are secreted within the estate.

The guards were doubled tonight as a result of threats made against members of the family, and also to frustrate, it was said, any attempt that might be made to remove the jewels from their hiding place and carry them off. None of the employees is being permitted to leave the grounds.

District Attorney Young said tonight preparations have been completed for the inquiry he will conduct in the Caruso home next Tuesday.

315 SOUTHERN GIRLS AT STUDENT Y. W. C. A.

Asheville, N. C., June 13.—The Southern Student Y. W. C. A. conference, with 315 girls in attendance from sixty-four southern colleges, which has been in session at Blue Ridge, near here, adjourned tonight. On Tuesday morning the Southern Student Y. W. C. A. conference will convene at the same place. This conference will continue through June 24, and the attendance is expected to be about 600. Boys and young men from all sections of the south have made reservations for the sessions and the speakers include many of the prominent workers in the country.

W. R. Hearst to Be Angel, With Senators Borah and Reed as Lieutenants, to Lead Defections From Respective Parties.

REPUBLICANS TIRED OF BORAH'S THREATS

Sponsors for the Third Party Hope to Gather to Its Fold All the Antis and Radicals in Both Old Parties.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Staff Correspondent of The Constitution.

Chicago, Ill., June 13.—(Special.) As an aftermath of the republican convention there is a strong indication of a third party movement taking definite shape early in July.

The next step toward that end will depend upon what the democrats do in convention at San Francisco. As the democratic platform can be readily anticipated, however, as an uncompromising indorsement of the administration, with a plain and unmistakable declaration in favor of the league of nations covenant with only interpretative or explanatory reservations, the irreconcilables, or the "poison squads" of both parties are making the preliminaries toward the third party launching.

The steering committee of the new organization is to be composed of the hell-benters of both the major parties, the ultra radicals and the malcontents. William Randolph Hearst is to be the chief engineer and the angel, with Senators Borah and Reed as the two chief lieutenants to lead the defections from their respective parties. The lesser lights among the leaders are to be those of the Thomas W. Hardwick type in both parties, the anti-conservatives who hate Wilson, the democratic president, and Harding, the republican nominee.

It is no secret to say they expect to enlist the activities of both Hiram Johnson, sometimes republican and sometimes progressive, of California, and William J. Bryan, sometimes democrat and sometimes socialist of Nebraska. Also a desperate effort will be made to amalgamate with the Illinois labor party and also to enlist the aid of Samuel Gompers in the event that labor radicalism gets the cold shoulder at San Francisco that it did at Chicago. The door will be opened in the platform for all the "reds" of America, alien and native born, as well as the socialistic inclined who are not directly connected with the candidacy of Eugene Debs. The platform is to largely trace the Watson-Smith-Hardwick Georgia platform as far as it went.

The nomination of Harding by the republican party has been a stinging blow to the radical wing of that party. Johnson is sulky and Borah is outspoken. Harding is the antithesis of party radicalism. He is in favor of the league of nations, and was at first a mild reservationist, tracking the democratic policy, but now, as republican candidate, declares himself in favor of the Lodge reservations. This is a thorny wreath for the "irreconcilables" to wear, and in his nomination they see an opportunity for keeping in the limelight by open antagonism.

Borah Invited to Bolt.

In the meantime it is no secret that the "old guard" of the republican party is tired and disgusted with Johnson and Borah, too, especially the latter. The Chicago Tribune, owned by Senator Medill McCormick, the mouthpiece of the stand-pat majority in the republican party, openly invites Senator Borah to leave the party. It politely but pointedly hands the Idaho firebrand his hat and tells him, in effect, to "join Hearst and do whatever he damn pleases, the sooner the better." The editorial is headed "Borah and Bolt." It says: "Mr. Hearst has been talking third party for months. He has been in Chicago throughout the republican convention, and his efforts to create dissension and to bring about a bolt are as plain as a prairie fire. Senator Borah seems to be sympathetic. Perhaps he ought not to remain with us any longer, he is so uncomfortable. Perhaps it is time for the party to say to this bellicose member, 'Must you be going? Here's your hat!' But has Senator Borah, all dressed up in righteous indignation and militant virtue, any place to go? He can't join the democrats on the league issue. Has the siren (in the sense of foghorn) voice of Mr. Hearst enchanted him? Are we to expect a third ticket, Hearst and Borah? Whatever Senator Borah's alternative intentions, it seems to us his threats to bolt for one reason or another are getting rather wearisome. If he really must be going, isn't it time for him to be on his way—as the whale remarked to Jonah on the evening of the third day. He will bolt first to Hearst and then to oblivion."

Full of Significance.

No word has fallen from the republican machine so significant in years. The Tribune is the mouthpiece of the machine. It is the spokesman for that wing of the G. O. P. that nominated Harding and is in undisputed control of the elephant menagerie. As Borah has been the manager of Hiram Johnson, the invitation direct from headquarters is inferentially extended to Johnson as to the others of the "poison squad" in the republican camp who have fermented discord but gotten nowhere. Even the republicans have no patience with party insurgency, and have shown a courage, in a trying moment, that is at least a refreshing breath in a hotbed of prejudices.

It is the well-founded belief that the democratic convention at San Francisco will offer the same opportunity to the reds and Hardwicks and Smiths and Watsons and Bryans to seek other pastures, if the pickings are better. It is this belief that stimulates the fermenting activities led by Hearst, to organize a third party in which to concentrate the radicals and all the "anti" elements, whethey they be labor agitators, Anti-Saloon leaguers, anti-Wilsonites, anti-treaty fighters, poison squaders, or what not.

SINGLE TAX PARTY TO HOLD CONVENTION.

New York, July 13.—The single tax party will hold a national convention in Chicago beginning July 10, it was announced here tonight from national committee headquarters.

The call for the gathering, which is signed by Robert C. Macauley, of Pennsylvania, accused the democratic and republican parties of furthering summary legislation involving communism and paternalism equal in effect to the program of the socialist party. Indorsement of the committee of forty-eight, which will hold a conference in Chicago at the same time, will be solicited, it was stated.

COMMITTEE OF 48 TO LAUNCH PARTY.

Chicago, June 13.—Asserting that the republican national convention "ignored most of the serious problems and mentioned others only to reveal its unwillingness to face them, honestly," the committee of forty-eight, in a statement tonight signed by Amos Pinchot and other members, said that "whatever uncertainty existed as to whether there would be a new party candidate for president has been removed."

The organization will adopt a platform and nominate a candidate for president at a convention in Chicago on July 10. "The republican party has now driven out of representation in its councils the millions of voters who followed Rosevelt, Johnson and La Follette," the statement said. "The new party will represent these voters, and will present a definite and constructive program."

The statement said that the new party had been organized in thirty states, and that it would be prepared to put its electoral ticket on the ballots in every state.

$4,475 RAISED SUNDAY FOR COLORED SCHOOL

There was $4,475.81 raised in subscriptions at a mass meeting held at Allen Temple A. M. E. church Sunday afternoon at the opening of a campaign to raise $25,000, Atlanta's share of $50,000 for the erection of an Administration building for the Holmes institute, a charitable and industrial institution for the training of the colored children of the city. The subscriptions reported from out of the city made the total subscriptions from all sources more than $5,000.

The meeting was largely attended. Bishop W. A. Fountain presided and made the opening address, asserting that the greatest need of the race today was the right kind of education. Rev. J. A. Lindsay, pastor, spoke of the work the Holmes institute is doing in the city in saving the wayward boys and girls of the colored race. Speeches were made commending the work of the Holmes institute by representatives from all the colored insurance companies of the city.

Rev. B. R. Holmes, president and founder, made the closing address. "There was never a time in the history of the race," he said, "that the colored people were more interested in educating their children than at the present. The right kind of education is the only medium through which crime can be diminished among the colored youth." He said that he was confident the citizens of Atlanta would contribute their share of the funds needed to complete the building of the Holmes institute.

ITALIANS BATTLING WITH THE ALBANIANS

Rome, June 13.—Italian Apine troops have cleared the Alvona front of Albanian insurrectionsists by violent counter attacks, according to advices received today, which declare that Italian troops were fired on the rear by residents of Alvona. The Italians arrested and deported more than 1,000 Mussulman Albanians. In reprisal, an Albanian chieftain is reported to have shot a number of Italian prisoners.

Dispatches received to day state that on June 6 Albanian rebels commenced isolated attacks in the region of Kanina, Giorni, Dukati and Tepeleni to the south and southwest of Alvona. The Italian forces opposed desperate resistance, giving way only before the superior strength of the enemy. The garrisons of Tepeleni and Dukati capitulated but the other garrisons retreated.

News of the fall of Tepeleni and Dukati to the Albanians caused a feeling of sadness here today, as seventy-five officers and eight hundred men of the garrison were taken prisoner.

Order Restored at Triest.

London, June 13.—Order has been restored at Triest, where demonstrations were held Friday night, as a protest against the sending of Italian troops to Albania, says a Milan dispatch to The London Times. It is learned that the soldiers who took part in the demonstration and rioting numbered 200. Sixty of them are now missing.

Twenty-five hundred Arditi were embarked from Milan for Albania Saturday, the dispatch states, but the dockers refused to load munitions destined for Albania.

DEMOCRATS GLAD OF G. O. P.'S CHOICE

Say Candidacy of Harding Enhances Their Chances for Remaining in Power. Harding's League Stand.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 13.—The reaction of the administration, and of democrats generally, to the selection of Senator Warren G. Harding as republican standard bearer is professedly one of satisfaction. They assert the candidacy of Harding enhances their chances for remaining in power.

The remarks of democratic leaders idicate the line of attack Harding will meet between now and November. They assert the Ohio senator is a subservient party man, without a record as a leader, and without the characteristics of leadership. They charge his nomination was a tremendous victory for the forces of reaction in the republican party, and that the party has failed to meet any of the big issues confronting the country, or to put forward a man who is capable of meeting them.

Short-Sighted Foreign Policy.

As regards the league of nations, which President Wilson will try to make the principal issue of the campaign, they contend Harding would surrender "national honor," sacrifice the fruits of victory, shirk obligations, yield the leadership of the world which America might have had, and adopt a short-sighted foreign policy.

Democrats consider that the league of nations issue is clarified by the choice of Harding, whose record in the senate has shown him to be opposed to the plan brought back by President Wilson. While Harding voted with the republican majority, led by Senator Lodge, when the treaty was under consideration in the senate, he was not an enthusiastic supporter of the covenant even with the modifications proposed.

He has charged that President Wilson was led by ambition during the peace negotiations, and that he missed an opportunity to dictate the terms under which the United States enter a league without surrendering its freedom of action. Harding referred to the "obstinacy" of the president as having kept America in a technical state of war.

Harding on several occasions in the senate and during his preconvention campaign, called attention to what he said was the preeminent importance of domestic affairs compared with international problems, and states his belief that the first duty of America was toward herself.

"Let America get down to business and let us put our own house in order once more," he said on one occasion. "It would be well for up to put America in order before we assume to run the remainder of the world."

Harding's attitude, in brief, has been that while international cooperation of some sort may be desirable, the proposals of President Wilson are wholly unacceptable, and that domestic affairs deserved attention before international.

View of Administration.

The view of the administration toward Harding's position was shown by Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, when he said Harding's idea of foreign policy was "to crawl in a hole and pull the hole in after him."

Thus President Wilson is assured his policies will meet atack and condemnation of a decided nature, along lines less drastic than those of the Johnson group, which favored utter annihilation of the league of nations and total divorce from international councils, and more severe than tohse of the so-called mild reservationists, who sought a middle ground which would have been satisfactory to both President Wilson and the rejublican majority. Democrats, planning to go before the country with a platform favoring the league of nations with reservations which will "not impair its essential integrity," profess to welcome the issue created by the selection of Harding.

OFFERS CONCILIATION TO THE IRISH PEOPLE

By WINSTON CHURCHILL,
British Secretary of War.

(Written for the United News by special arrangement with The Sunday Herald, London.)

London, June 13.—No nation ever established its title deeds by a campaign of assassination.

Great Britain, having come grimly through the slaughter of Armageddon, is certainly not going to be scared by the squalid scenes of sporadic warfare enacted across the channel. The British may be alienated; they may be irritated; eventually they may be infuriated—but they certainly are not going to be terrorized by such actions.

We are told that the present home-rule bill is not sufficiently extensive in its scope. If that is all the complaint, the remedy would be easy. Let any reputable body of Irishmen, backed by strong elements among their fellow countrymen, come forward and say, "If the bill is broadened in these respects, we will help you put down the murders and thereafter assume the responsibility of governing the country."

Parliament would then be forced to meet them at once in most earnest consultation, and no one believes that minor difficulties would be permitted to obstruct a practical settlement.

But there are, however, two things, and only two, that Great Britain can never grant for any Irish appeal, either violent or conciliatory. We can never concede the setting up of an independent republic, nor can we compel Ulster by force of arms to participate in the Dublin parliament. On both these issues the British nation must stand and fight over ten years, over twenty years, over a hundred years, time can make no difference to the British resolve.

Americans waded through the agony of civil war, destroying a million lives, to preserve the vital integrity of the country. British patriotism is not less vigilant and resolute than theirs.

The power of Irish nationalism to inflict a mortal injury upon the British empire has passed definitely away. Irishmen must realize that along the path of violence they will find nothing but increasing resistance by a superior power, but that another path is at all times open by which they may constitutionally and speedily obtain virtual self-government. On one hand, there is nothing but barbed wire and walls that cannot be scaled; on the other is an open door.

Real reconciliation with the Irish and a final settlement of the age-long series of misunderstandings would be an advantage for which Britain is ready to make extreme exertions. It rests with the Irishmen of the present hour to set in motion such a beneficient train of events.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN WILL BE PUSHED

No Time to Be Lost in Getting Things Under Way—Hays to Name Executive Committee.

Chicago, June 13.—Campaign managers for Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, who was made the presidential nominee by the republican national convention Saturday night, said today no time would be lost in getting things under way. Harry M. Daugherty, director of Harding's pre-convention campaign, requested the national committee to take "prompt, snappy and energetic action" in placing the merits of the republican issues before the voters of the country. Party managers, it was said, would not wait until Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge are officially notified of their nomination, but plan to start the campaign soon after the democratic convention is held.

Will H. Hays, re-elected chairman by the new national committee, was out of town today, resting after his strenuous days during the convention. The members of the new executive committee, of whom seven will be women, will be named without delay by Chairman Hays. A vice chairman of the executive committee who will be a woman will be selected at the time the committee is announced.

To Cut Southern Delegations.

The resolution passed in the final minutes of the convention forecasts a change in the representation of the republican party from southern states at future national conventions. The resolution, offered by former Congressman Paul Howland, of Ohio, provides that the apportionment of delegates to conventions shall be in proportion to the republican votes cast in the states.

Testimony before the national committee ten days ago in its execution of claims of contesting delegations from several southern states, showed certain delegates represented only a small constituency as compared to delegates from other sections of the country. The resolution which was passed unanimously notwithstanding the vigorous protests from delegates from Louisiana, Alabama and Texas, provides "that in order to effect proper and necessary changes in the apportionment of delegates in proportion to the republican votes actually cast at general elections throughout the various states, and in order to inspire a greater effort to maintain substantial party organizations in all the states, the national committee, notwithstanding any rule heretofore adopted, is directed within twelve months to adopt a just and equitable basis of representation in future national concentions. The basis shall be set forth in the call for the next convention, and be binding upon all other future conventions until otherwise ordered."

About the time party managers begin their real activities the senate committee investigating campaign funds will resume hearings, holding its first session in Chicago July 7. While the committee has been authorized to extend its investigation, Senator Kenyon, its chairman, said no plans had yet been made to inquire into campaign funds up to election day.

Women to Move on Harding.

The republican presidential nominee will become the center of the campaign of the national woman's party to bring about ratification of the suffrage federal constitutional amendment, according to a statement issued by suffrage leaders. A large delegation of women from many states, it was announced, will wait upon Senator Harding and ask him to insist upon action to secure the thirty-sixth state for ratification.

"Our campaign against republican obstruction to suffrage is not over," said the statement. "We will continue publicly and insistently to demand action from the republican party to complete suffrage ratification. Since our picketing began at the republican convention hall, additional pressure has been exerted by republican leaders to secure a special session in Vermont."

Delegates and visitors attracted to Chicago by the national convention lost no time in getting away from town, after the nominations were made. Today there were few delegates here, and virtually no party leaders. Senator Harding left for Washington late Saturday night on the same train with Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman of the convention, and Senator Smoot. Senator Johnson, of California, also departed.

AMERICAN SMOKER: "NOT ON YOUR LIFE—MY SMOKE-MONEY ALL GOES FOR TOBACCO"

Virginia—the best tobacco—is actually least expensive!

No finer cigarette tobacco is grown anywhere than the silky, golden leaf known as "bright" Virginia — or costs more to raise.

And unlike imported tobacco, Virginia crosses no oceans to reach you. You pay no Import duty, no Ocean freight, no Marine insurance. All your money buys tobacco because Virginia grows right here at home.

Yet for mellow-mildness and true tobacco taste, Virginia is without an equal. It needs no blending with other tobaccos to bring out its flavor. MRS. CATT HEADS SUFFRAGE GROUP

International Alliance Again Chooses New Yorker, Who Has Served as President for 18 Years.

BY ALCYON ROBINSON.
Written for the United News.

Geneva, June 13.—Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York, for eighteen years president of the International Suffrage alliance, was unanimously re-elected to that office against her own protests at the closing session here.

"Under the leadership of experienced British suffragists and Mrs. Catt," delegates declared, "the alliance will go forward to greater successes. The acceptance of continued leadership by Mrs. Catt is one of the most important decisions made by the congress."

In the league of nations, also, the conference was a unit in seeing the only hope for the future peace of the world, and, because of this hope, the convention issued a call to women throughout the world to use their influence towards the establishment of the league on a firm basis, and its complete acceptance by the United States.

"It is apparently only the men," said Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, "who cling to differing opinions regarding the league."

Mrs. Joseph Daniels Talks.

Second in importance to the drive for the world-wide adoption of the league and its principles, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the American secretary of the navy, declares that the convention's stand for a single moral standard should be regarded as the most important development of the conference.

"The most important action that came before the suffrage congress," she declared, "was undoubtedly our decision to urge the removal of the world-wide blight upon illegitimate children, and to ask that the man be made equally responsible with the woman for all moral lapses.

Adele Schreiber, socialist member of parliament from Dresden, proposed to the convention that "to prove the truth of the old saying that all the mothers of the world are responsible for all the children in the world," the convention go on record as desiring to help "the starving people of every destroyed country." The proposal was adopted unanimously.

Apology for Atrocities.

And following this there was an impressive scene when this same woman, together with Frau A. Popp, an Austrian socialist, asked to present an "unofficial" apology for the atrocities perpetrated in Belgium and France, asking that the Belgian suffragists once more return to the fold of the suffrage alliance. There was weeping in the room where a little group of French, American, Swiss and Italian delegates heard the apology upon the request of the representatives of the central empires.

PENROSE IS ELATED BY HARDING VICTORY

Philadelphia, June 13.—Senator Boies Penrose in a statement expressed his elation over Senator Harding's nomination for the presidency. The statement follows, in part:

"As is well known, I have been partly relegated to the rear on account of sickness, but even though I was not permitted to take part in the battle at Chicago the final result of the contest for the presidential nomination could not be more satisfactory to me.

"I say advisedly that the country is fortunate, and the situation is fully met. Senator Harding as president will know how to control affairs at home, as well as command the respect of foreign nations."

Senator Penrose sent the following congratulatory telegram to Senator Harding:

"I extend my sincere congratulations upon your nomination. You know I was one of the earliest advocates of your fitness for the office, and was prepared at any opportunity to go in and promote your candidacy. With your sterling Americanism and long public and legislative experience, you have pre-eminent qualifications which appeal to the people. You belong to the type of statesmen who are qualified to act as president, and, being convinced that the American people are determined to restore the republican party to power in November, I have a certainty of your election and confidence in a great administration at your hands. I hope to be able to take my full part in the campaign and shall do everything in my power to help you win."

ALFRIEND TO ASSUME DUTIES AT COLLEGE

Milledgeville, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Professor Kyle T. Alfriend, recently elected president of the Georgia Military college, will begin his work for the college next Wednesday. He was elected to succeed Colonel J. H. Marshburn and Colonel O. R. Horton.

Colonel Horton left Monday to go to Gainesville to take his work as president of Riverside Military academy, and Colonel Marshburn will go to the University of Oklahoma to teach English the coming term. Professor Alfriend is eager to take charge of the school, and will do all he can to carry on the wonderful improvements which have been made on the school.

An invitation has been extended to the people of the city generally to attend the exercises.

CHARGE IN PLATFORM DENIED BY BURLESON

Postmaster General Issues Warmly Worded Statement on Alleged Incompetency.

Washington, June 13.—Posamaster General Burleson today issued a warmly-worded statement denying the charges of incompetency made against his department in the republican platform adopted at Chicago. Among the counter charges he hurls at his political opponents is this:

"Watch the amount of a certain contribution to the republican campaign fund and it will be disclosed that a certain intrest which, having failed to control or even influence a republican congress by slimy falsehoods, because both sides could be heard, temporarily got in its work on the great republican organization, where the truth could not be heard and apparently was not desired."

Speaking of his department's administration of the telegraph and telephone lines, and the republican charges of incompetency in their management, the postmaster general said:

"Immediately after the wires were returned, the chief executive officer of the telephone companies, which embrace 80 per cent of the telephone service in America, a great republican, but an honest man, who was recognized as the greatest living expert on wire communication in the world, said: 'During the government control not a single order was issued which was not in the interest of the service.'"

The president of a telegraph company (a repjublican), operating approximately 75 per cent of the telegraph wires in this country, made similar statements, according to Burleson.

Refutes Charges.

Burleson refutes charges which he said were made by insinuation in the tentaitve draft of the republican platform to the efect that government control was used for "pooling patronage" and "political espionage" by pointin gout that only four new places were created, three being filled by republicans and one by "an experienced accountant long in the government service, whose politics is unknown." He challenegs the republicans "to name one instance of even an attempt at "political espionage."

The statement winds up by declaring that the only reductions of postage during the last seven years were those made by order of the postmaster general—this in refutation of the republican claim that it reduced the cost of postage—and that the republican majority in congress refused to act on his recommendation that the first-class postage rate be reduced.

RECORD PRICE PAID FOR TRACT OF TIMBER

Tifton, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Probably the highest price ever paid for pine timber in this section was that included in a deal closed this week at Adel, when 70 acres belonging to the estate of the late H. J. Parrish were sold to the Adel Manufacturing company for $9,400—nearly $135 an acre. There are 75 acres in the tract, but a road runs through it, and two acres are in a pond.

The timber had never been touched with an ax, having been preserved by Mr. Parrish in front of his home. It was only in winding up the affairs of the estate that it was sold. The tract is located four miles from Adel.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT

In sustaining the demurrer interposed by Charles E. Hughes, special counsel for the American Woolen companies of New York and Massachusetts and William M. Wood, president of those corporations, Federal Judge Mack, New York, committed his court to a dangerous precedent.

The defendants had been charged with profiteering in wearing apparel, the complainant being the United States government acting in behalf of the American people.

No attempt was made by the defense to establish innocence of the crime charged—though, of course, that fact alone does not prove guilt—but it demurred to the indictments on the technical grounds that "woolen goods" does not constitute "wearing apparel" and, therefore, the corporations and their president are technically not guilty as charged.

The trial judge sustained the demurrer, without going into the other merits of the case and without hearing evidence in behalf of either side of the litigation, and ordered the indictments quashed.

Some years ago at the height of a "wave" of horse-stealing in one of our northwestern states the sheriff's posse finally succeeded in capturing the ring leader of a notorious gang of "range rustlers."

The prisoner was flagrantly guilty; the prosecuting attorney drew an "information" charging him with having stolen a specific horse, and the case went to trial.

But in lieu of introducing evidence to prove his client not guilty—seeing the futility of such a course—counsel for the defense moved to quash on the grounds that, while the defendant was charged with stealing a "horse," the truth of the matter was that it was a mare, and not a "horse," that was described in the "information."

The trial judge sustained the motion to quash, and the defendant was ordered discharged.

That night there was a lynching; the "mare-thief" being on the receiving end of the rope!—the first lynching that had taken place in that orderly community for years!

And there was no more "mare"-stealing nor "horse"-stealing!

If these alleged woolen goods profiteers had been given a fair trial; and if they had established their innocence, and been discharged by the court on the strength of the merits of the case, no law-respecting American citizen would have said a word. Everybody would have been satisfied.

But the dismissal of the case upon a flimsy technicality cannot but leave upon the public mind an impression that the court has not "played fair" with the people.

The government has appealed the case.

Let us hope that it will win before the higher court.

CHILD VOTES BY PROXY.

The French chamber of deputies has before it for consideration a bill to increase the scope of the elective franchise privilege in France so as to include all citizens of the republic, regardless of sex or age, the votes of minor children to be cast by their legal guardians.

Thus, as the purpose of the act is expained by The New York Independent—

"In a family of five Jean Bart will have one vote in his own right. Madame Marie Bart will have one vote to cast as she likes and the votes of little Pierre, Lucille and Louise will be cast by Papa Jean. But if the father dies or moves away, so that Madame Bart is the legal head of the household, she will not only have her own vote as before, but cast also the three votes of her children. When one of the children reaches the age of 21, of course, he or she will gain the right to vote directly instead of by proxy."

The primary aim of the bill is to give representation to families which lost their place in political life by the death of the father—who, under existing French law, was the only voter in the family—during the war.

It is argued in its behalf that perhaps no other country, with the exception of Serbia lost so large a percentage of its adult male citizens on the battlefields of the world war as did France; and hence the unhealthful disparity between the population of France and the number of citizens entitled to participate in their government.

Another argument advanced by the proponents of the plan is that it would encourage marriage and the rearing of large families by adding increased political power "to tax exemptions and other privileges."

While the bill implies a unique idea in goverrnment, it deals seriously with a serious question—the fundamental question of government and taxation without representation—and is not to be lightly brushed aside as a "freak" measure.

NATIONAL PARKS.

In connection with the movement that is under way to convert Okefenokee swamp, or a large part of it, into a national park, thus to preserve its scenic beauties and primeval characteristics for future generations, the suggestion of W. E. Candler, Blairsville attorney, that a national park be created from certain contiguous areas of Union, Gilmore, Dawson and Lumpkin counties, commends itself with particular favor.

As Mr. Candler explains it in a communication appearing elsewhere upon this page, the idea he has in mind is for the government to officially set aside as a national park a tract of land approximating 500,000 acres in the aggregate, lying in the four "mountain" counties referred to.

There are several such national parks already established in the west, and one or two in the east; and the policy has produced splendid results in the protection of the wild flora and fauna of the regions designated as national parks, greatly reduced the loss of valuable timber from fire, while at the same time working hardship upon no one.

There is no more picturesque mountain scenery on the continent that is to be found within the area designated by Mr. Candler. While it is not so rugged and precipitous as some of our national park scenes in the Rocky Mountain region, the particular area of mountain land is so beautiful and so picturesque as to fully justify the appellation by which it is commonly known: The Switzerland of America.

Fires, private industry and hunters are fast making away with its original grandeur for wooded raiment and its natural wild-life. Left without protection for a few years more, it will degenerate to a vast expanse of stumped area, dotted here and there with patches of cultivated land; trees gone, soil eroded from its mountain sides; its native animals and birds, and its mountain stream fishes, virtually, if not quite, extinct.

These characteristics already are far too few in the United States, and especially in the eastern parts of the country; and they ought to be preserved.

As Mr. Candler points out, much of this area in question is now government property, and there would be little difficulty encountered by Uncle Sam in acquiring such privately-owned land as may be necessary to round out a magnificent national park of the proportions suggested by our correspondent.

The creation of a great national park in the extreme southern part of the state, embracing the Okefenokee wonderland, and another in the extreme north, of natural features precisely the opposite of those of the proposed sub-tropical swamp reservation, would give Georgia a national park "system" unmatched by that of any other state in the union, and it would constitute a priceless asset to the nation.

The Chicago hotel proprietor never has a kick coming as to a deadlocked political convention.

Germany must be getting sane, for Count von Bernstorff was defeated for office there recently.

Says the Indianapolis News: "A glace at the advertising men in action is all it takes to convince any one that hard work has more to do with success in the advertising business than luck."

Talk is too cheap for the high cost; it won't come down for it.

Congress knew it couldn't outtalk a national political convention, so it got out of the way in good time.

A Bright School Paper.

"A-4 Follies" is the name of a Girls' High school paper, Atlanta, which was edited and published by the pupils, with Ruth Still as editor, Florence Smith, assistant editor, and Audrey Oviatte, class artist.

The sixth number contains the valedictory of the editors, and much bright reading matter—notably poems contributed by the girls of the school. "Only You," by Ruth Still; "The Girls of A-4," "The Algebra Lineup," by Marion Ivy Harris, and other verses, give quite a literary flavor to the little paper. And there's a notable prose article, "A Class Prophecy," by Ruth Still.

Urges National Park In North Georgia

The Constitution: Knowing your interest as I do in the progress and development of our state and that the columns of your paper are always open for any legitimate purpose to that end I desire to say that there is in the southwestern part of Union county and the southeastern part of Fannin and Gilmer counties and the northern part of Dawson and Lumpkin counties approximately 500,000 acres of mountain land properly adapted for a national park and it ought to be used for that purpose.

The west has national parks, just how many I am not informed, and why not have one in the south?

In the area stated above the national government now owns approximately one-fifth of the land the same having been acquired under the provisions of the Weeks law for the purpose of protecting the head waters of the navigable streams of our state and why not use the same and all the land in the area stated for the twofold purposes as contemplated under the Weeks law and a national park. I know of no spot on earth better adapted for the purpose stated.

In the main the land is not suitable for agricultural purposes, and it is nearly as a whole abandoned for home purposes.

It is by nature the home of the speckled trout, wild turkeys, pheasants, deer and all the various kinds of small wild animals. There is no land on earth supplied with more abundant cool and pure freestone water than the scetion I call to your attention.

In the main the land is very fertile and covered with mountain ferns, ivy, laurel and all the different varieties of mountain flowers and would make an ideal national park, and converted to such would help solve many problems now in the way of developing this part of the state.

Let the general government take over all of the 500,000 acres of land I refer to and convert it into a national park, develop and beautify it as such with good roads, etc.

While, as a democrat, I differed with the lamented Mr. Roosevelt, at the same time I realize he was a great American, and being by reason of the fact that his mother was a Georgia woman, identified with our state and its past history, as a memorial to his fame and memory, I would be pleased to see the park I have in mind named after Theodore Roosevelt.

Let us all go to work as becomes true Georgians and rid our state, as far as it is possible to do so, of political demagogues and develop our whole state. Good roads constructed under the policy of our competent and efficient state highway commission and on a broad plan, without favor or affection, to any local idea or whim will keep our beloved state in the forefront, and every true and loyal citizen will be proud to be called a Georgian.

Constructive work is what we need. W. E. CANDLER.

Bits of New York Life

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, June 12.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up betimes and gay, singing until the dog howled. I made the cook-maid merry with the increase in wages and our household in great content and my wife, poor wretch, too in high spirits.

It was pretty to hear C. Briggs, H. Staton, C. Voight and G. McManus make sneering remarks at my new cloth top boots, knowing as I did it was their petty jealous natures. And J. Weber, the Dutch play-actor, came to the eating place and told us some brave tales of the noble days when he trouped with L. Fields and how they started their famous choking act.

Through the town afoot, stopping at a chapel to hear some fine music by Italian gentlemen who sing sweetly. And came upon Dr. de Santos, my old acquaintance, and we had high words about the works of Joseph Conrad, my conclusion being that his novels start well but end feebly.

Then to a magazine editor's office and he told me the good news that G. Ade is soon to begin writing his fables again. Meeting my wife in a great store we had a cup of Chinese drink called tea and a lady there in hysterics finding her husband with a brazen girl.

Home and at my accounts and determined to stop some practices of wasting money, an able merchant telling me that he began to get rich when he cut away from the small extravagances. Yet these tales of thrift do bore me and I believe I am happier when I spend and need more. Walked down the Broad Way with my cousin marveling at the great lights, making the night like a sunshiny day. And so to bed.

What is the most successful ingredient of a musical play? Ned Wayburn made one of the most famous Broadway successes in reviving the air of an old comic opera and using it for a spectacular dance on a revolving platform. Critics admitted it was the only thing worth while in the show—yet it ran a year. "What's in a Name?" is a current Broadway success. And yet it is not a great show. It is silly in spots. But one song put it over—the famous music box number called "A Young Man's Fancy." The orchestration gives the effect of a music box of not so long ago. The tune is haunting and people flock to hear it. Ned Wynn's Carnival is another big hit. Wynn is the entire show. His cast is mediocre. The chief reason for the marvelous success of "Irene" is a perfectly drilled chorus. It is the best chorus ever seen in New York.

Gauguin is the latest art idol. The South Sea islander's work has established a growing and enthusiastic cult. Not so long ago it was Blakelock. Before that it was Renoir, or did Cezanne come into his own at that time? And some time further back it was Dezas and others of the impressionists. The French-Peruvian painter is like most of the artists who have been neglected for years and then suddenly emerges into the blaze of fanatical admiration. He is a figure dear to tradition. His life in the islands of the South Seas, strange, picturesque and semi-savage, has excited the interest of all those who have a taste for setting their wits to the solution of the human problem, as exemplified in the lives of noted men. Gauguin died in the Marquesas 20 years ago and was buried by the people who adopted him. The paintings of the native women in Tahiti and the Marquesas are against futuristic scenic backgrounds which have no relation to realism in the tropics. Somerset Maugham in his story, "The Moon and Sixpence"—and if you have not read it get it at your public library at once—is supposed to have taken Gauguin for his hero Strickland, who, like Gauguin, gave up western civilization to finish his days with the people of the South Seas. Gauguin lived like the natives, wearing a loin cloth and eating their strange food.

THE PAWN.

A man must ever hold himself in readiness to be played. He must take with great grace the fact that he must at times become a mere pawn for an idea. Yet may he rank among the immortal worth-whiles of the world—for in life, as in the game of chess, the pawn often holds the key to the winning play.

Only as you are able to link your own noble aims and efforts with the larger ones of Time, are you able to feel working within you the "conscious pursuit of a great purpose," an Aristotle has so finely put it—meaning, I believe, that the machinery of high achievement which Nature has given to man begins its motion the minute that he sights his ideal.

With such a feeling breeding within one's mind and heart, who can hesitate before a great chance? Who would not be willing to lay down his very life and ask that it be traded in for an ideal?

Napoleon walked through pesthouses without fear. Roosevelt evaded his guards, while president, for it was distatseful to him to think that, if his body was to be sacrificed, it would not well serve its end.

Greatness stalks out in the open!

But this big business of pawn-serving isn't confined to the fullness of fame. The men or women behind their desks and machines, doing the day's work well, are as truly spending their lives to a fine purpose—pawns for the chronicler of a passing time to note with pride.

So let us talk to our tired bodies and to our oft-discouraged hearts, and tell them to remember that what they give out is the only thing of permanence about them.

Be glad to give, to serve, to sweat, to fight, to sacrifice, to stand smilingly ready—to be pawned.

AFFAIRS REFLECTED

From Georgia State Library.

The tendency to standardize has received tremendous impetus from the world war, especially along certain lines.

To facilitate and promote world trade a unification of world standards of weights and measures is being urged from many sources.

Such standardization would not only bring into easy economic and commercial relations the several countries of the world, greatly facilitating the export trade of this and other countries, but it would, at the same time, be a boon, locally, to American farmers, American housewives, to provision merchants, wholesale and retail. A standardized bushel that would watch the same whether measured in Georgia or California, and a uniform system of selling farm produce right here in Atlanta where one merchant prices potatoes by the pound and the next one prices them by the quart, would be of vast benefit.

Independent legislation relative to weights and measures has been enacted in the following states:

California, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachutetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon.

The remaining states observe the United States standard of weights and measures.

A SINGLE HOUND

When the opal lights in the west had died
And night was wrapping the red ferns round,
As I came home by the woodland side
I heard the cry of a single hound.

The huntsman had gathered his pack and gone;
The last late hoof had echoed away;
The horn was twanging a long way on
For the only hound that was still astray.

While heedless of all but the work in hand
Up through the brake where the brambles twine
Crying his joy to the drowsy land,
Javelin drove on a burning line.

The air was sharp with a touch of frost;
The moon came up like a wheel of gold;
The wail at the end of the woods he crossed
And flung away on the open wold.

And long as I listened beside the stile
The larches ehoed that eerie sound,
Steady and tireless, mile on mile
The hunting cry of a single hound.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

AUTOBABYOGRAPHY—24.
Tonsils, Adenoids and Ears.

I am no longer what you would call a pulling infant in nurse's arms, yet I still have my tonsils my adenoid body and my middle ears, all intact, but this is not because dad doesn't believe in adenoid and tonsil operations. I would not have my father misunderstood. He may have his queer notions, but as a doctor he believes thoroughly in the efficacy of drugs intelligently prescribed to meet the conditions of the present moment and he thoroughly deprecates the use of drugs used blindly, as they are used too frequently by people who imagine a drug or a combination of drugs is likely to cure a given complaint.

Likewise, dad knows the great necessity for and the value of operations for the removal of tonsils or adenoid enlargements in children, quite as well as knews that such operations are too often ill-advised. For instance, he thinks it is shameful that in some communities persons so incompetent in the art of diagnosis as school teachers and nurses are permitted to advise parents who are presumed to be too poor or too ignorant to have medical advice, that Johnny or Mary should have tonsils or adenoids removed. No school teacher and no nurse is qualified to give such advice. The opinion of a school teacher or a nurse that a child has adenoids is absolutely worthless and should never be taken seriously by any parent. There is no outward sign, appearance or expression characteristic of the presence of thickened adenoid tissue, notwithstanding an opposing fancy which has been urged upon teachers and nurses who are expected to play the role of amateur doctor. Mouth breathing, thick nasal tone of voice, vaulty palate, dental and face development, mental backwardness (from impaired hearing) and the like, are by no means sufficient to warrant a diagnosis of adenoids. There is but one way in which an accurate diagnosis of the presence of an abnormally large or thickened adenoid body in the post-nasal region may be determined, and that is by feeling it with the finger or by seeing its image in a special throat mirror, and both of these methods of examination are safely used by physicians only.

My father is not the only doctor who has seen alleged adenoid hypertrophies subjected to operation when there was no hypertrophy (overgrowth or enlargement) of the adenoid found. The busy clinic where he has seen such mistakes is not the only clinic where little school children have been rushed ill-advisedly for adenoid operations prescribed by unqualified persons. Father says he will have me operated on every month if necessary for the removal of adenoid hypertrophy or diseased tonsils, but first he will see or feel the adenoid enlargement or have a better doctor see or feel it.

As I have already explained, we had nothing at all against fresh air, the weather, exposure, dampness and all that sort of thing at our house. Hence my tonsils and adenoids never bothered me any. Likewise, my ears remained quite well, thank you. The ears are just part of the breathing apparatus, you know.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Our Dumb Animals.

Do we get flu through the feet? Many years ago I read, I think it was in "Our Dumb Animals," that about three-fourths of a teaspoonful of powdered sulphur in each boot or shoe every morning would protect the user from epidemics. The discovery was made from the fact that in a certain epidemic ravaged town the only persons who escaped were those employed in a sulphur match factory. (R. M.)

Sometime ago I read that a Dr. — advised that sulphur be sprinkled in the shoes to prevent grip through absorption by the system. (G. P. B.)

ANSWER—May it not, in a watchful-waiting or too-proud-to-fight manner of speaking, have been the phosphorous poisoning with which the match workers suffered more or less that made them immune? No harm in sprinkling sulphur in the shoes, if you take any stock in Dumb Animal sanitation, but it is my duty to assure you that no sulphur will be absorbed through the feet.

Bran Muffins.

A long time ago you published a recipe for bran muffins, which mother made, and we found them both very palatable and better than physics for regulating the bowel. Won't you please publish that recipe again? (Mrs. B. D. E.)

ANSWER—One egg well beaten; pinch of salt; butter the size of a walnut, melted; one cupful each of sweet milk, wheat flour, wheat bran; one teaspoonful baking powder. Bake in gem tins.

POCAHONTAS MEETING WILL BEGIN TUESDAY

At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning the annual session of the Degree of Pocahontas, Improved Order of Red Men, will convene in great council, to be presided over by Miss Mable Smith, of Atlanta, as Pocahontas, and it is believed that all the officers of the great council will be in their respective stations when the gavel falls for the opening session.

Delegates from all over Georgia will be present, and it is thought that by midnight tonight practically all representatives will have reached Atlanta.

The session will be held in Red Men's wigwam on Central avenue, and, it is believed, will be one of the most interesting in the history of the order.

The meeting will close Tuesday night with a reception to Great Senior Sagamore John Sedwick, of Indiana, who will reach Atlanta tonight, and who will be the principal speaker at a big pow-wow of Red Men Tuesday evening in the wigwam. Mr. Sedwick will represent Great Incohonee Rogers, who was unavoidably deterred from attending the great council of Georgia Red Men, which meets on Wednesday.

Tuesday night's social gathering under the auspices of the Pocahontas and Red Men will be a fitting climax to the annual meeting of the ladies' auxiliary.

Hold Examinations For Postal Clerks In Atlanta, June 24

Civil service examination for postoffice clerks will be held at the Atlanta postoffice on June 24, according to announcement of Postmaster Bolling H. Jones.

A recent bill before congress provides that the entrance salary of clerks shall be $1,400 a year, and by promotion they may reach a salary of $2,000. The same bill provides for only eight hours' work. All overtime will be paid for or compensatory time given in its place. Annual vacation with pay will be allowed.

Requests for application blanks should be made to the civil service commission, Room 514, Federal building, Atlanta.

Col. Noyes and Staff Will Be the Guests At Rotary Luncheon

Colonel C. R. Noyes and his staff of Camp Gordon, will be the guests of the Atlanta Rotary club at its meeting and luncheon at the Piedmont hotel Tuesday. The new army will be the principal topic of discussion. A large attendance of Rotarians is expected to be present for the occasion.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES EFFECTIVE TUESDAY

Downtown Atlanta, with the exception of a few streets, Marietta street being one of them, will become non-parking territory Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, when the new traffic ordinance recently passed by city council becomes effective.

At that time it will become a violation of the law to park between the hours of 7 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock in the evening on the following streets or portions of streets within the boundaries named:

Peachtree and Whitehall between Baker and Mitchell.

Pryor street, north and south, between East Mitchell and Peachtree streets.

Broad street between Mitchell and Peachtree street.

Forsyth street between Mitchell and Peachtree streets.

Decatur street, between Ivy and Peachtree streets.

Hunter street, between Pryor and Forsyth streets.

East and West Alabama street, between Central and Madison avenues.

Walton street, between Peachtree and Spring streets.

Luckie street, between Peachtree and Spring streets.

Auburn avenue, between Peachtree and Ivy streets.

Fairlie street, between Marietta street and Carnegie way.

Poplar street, between Peachtree and Spring streets.

Edgewood avenue, between Peachtree and Ivy streets.

FIRST HALT SEEN IN TWO YEARS PAST IN BUILDING BOOM

Partly because of scarcity and high prices of material and labor, partly because of credit restriction and high money, and partly because comparisons are now making with very active building trade conditions a year ago, the number of permits in May shows the first decline in two years, and the value of projected building, though enormous when measured by comparison with any year previous to 1919, is the smallest indicated in about a year, and the gain over a year ago is the lightest reported in a year and a half, according to Bradstreet's weekly statement.

Permits in May fell off 6.6 per cent from a year ago, and values gained only 16.7 per cent. In April, when building costs broke all records, permits gained 23 per cent and values 120 per cent. Applying the gain shown at 132 cities to the May total a year ago at 163 cities, the probable expenditure will be not far from $124,000,000, which is the smallest in a year, it is true, but larger than anything reported previous to June, 1919.

RELATIONS OF RACES DISCUSSED AT RALLY

How a better understanding may be reached between the white and colored races was discussed in speeches delivered at a mass meeting Sunday afternoon at the Atlanta theater by Colonel William J. Simmons, professor of southern history at Lanier university, and Judge George Hillyer.

Mr. Simmons, who was the first speaker, said that if the southern negroes were left alone they had no desire to disturb the peace and harmony between the races, but, he said, propaganda is being disseminated among them to stir them to seek social and political equality. God created certain barriers between the races, said the speaker and declared that the set of men who sought to break them down would sooner or later have to pay the penalty.

He attacked the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, declaring that the three aims of the organization are to bring about social and political equality for the negro and wipe out the Jim Crow law. This law has been violated in several instances on the Atlanta street cars, he said, and stated that the people of the city should get together and bring about better regulation in this respect.

Judge Hillyer, who followed, said that if the Yankees would stay on their side of the line the southern people would manage the negroes with the church and the Bible and the problem would be solved.

He cautioned against animosity toward the race as a whole because of the offenses of a few of their number. "If one or two or a dozen colored people misbehave, deal with the guilty and stop at that," said Judge Hillyer. He also deplored lynching.

Dr. Caleb A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, opened the meeting with prayer. Several splendid songs were rendered by a male quartet. Approximately 300 people, a large number of them ladies, attended the meeting.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS ARE GIVEN DINNER AT CAMP GORDON

About 250 Knights Templar, members of the Coeur de Lion and Atlanta commanderies, were guests at Camp Gordon yesterday, where they participated in the services at the auditorium and partook of an excellent meal, which was served to them afterward.

The knights were in full uniform and were met at the bridge by the full band, under the direction of Eminent Sir J. W. Murrell, who escorted them to the auditorium. There they listened to a sermon by Chaplain G. C. Stull, who is also a member of the Coeur de Lion commandery. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Muller.

The dinner was served at the Hostess house by the officers and enlisted men of the camp and the knights returned to the city in enthusiastic spirits over the intellectual as well as the material feast they had enjoyed.

Robertson Praises The Vice Presidential Candidate of G. O. P.

Particularly undemonstrative, giving the impression of taking in everything around him without visible signs of emotion, quiet, but not cold—these are a few of the chief impressions of Governor Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, the republican nominee for the vice presidency, upon Charles E. Robertson, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who knew the Bay State governor as a fellow-alumnus of Amherst college.

Mr. Robertson says that he never knew the republican nominee intimately, but that he was often thrown into contact with him at commencements and reunions, as well as during the period when Mr. Coolidge was mayor of Northampton, near where Mr. Robertson took a course preparatory to entering Amherst.

"Coolidge was well beloved in Northampton," said Mr. Robertson, "and undoubtedly represents the best element of New England politics. President Meiklejohn, of Amherst college, in conferring the degree of doctor of divinity upon the Massachusetts governor last year, complimented him upon his teaching of the lesson of 'adequate brevity,' which is a rare trait with public speakers and should be one of the things which will make him—if elected—a positive instead of a negative quantity in the vice presidential chair, a traditional impossibility, it has seemed, for several years.

"The sudden national eminence to which the governor rose during the police strike crisis in Boston was an accident, if you will, but it cannot be denied that he handled the situation in a commanding and manly fashion."

DR. BELK TO LECTURE FOR EPWORTH LEAGUE

Dr. S. R. Belk, Atlanta minister and prominent speaker, will give his well-known lecture, "Sunshine and Laughter," at Bonnie Brae Methodist church, corner Lillian avenue and Tift street, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Those who have heard Dr. Belk will appreciate this opportunity of hearing him again. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Epworth league.

School Consolidation.

Waycross, June 13.—(Special.)—An application has been sent to M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, by John Lee, president of the Ware county board of education, and C. W. Pittman, county superintendent, for the consolidation of Pine Valley, Victory and Waresboro schools. It is the purpose of the Ware county board to establish a junior high school in Waresboro and provide transportation for all pupils.

YAARAB CARAVAN OFF TO PORTLAND

300 Nobles and Ladies Leave Atlanta Today on Long Pilgrimage to Imperial Council Meeting.

Traveling in a solid train of twelve steel cars, consisting of eight Pullmans, a baggage car and two diners, Yaarab Temple's caravan will leave the union station today at 3 p. m. for the long pilgrimage across the mythical desert of North America to the temporary Mecca of the Mystic Shrine, which this year is located in the hospitable Oasis of Portland, Oregon. That the one train is not three trains, with some nine hundred nobles and ladies aboard is the fault of the railroad equipment, and not of the willingness or ability of the nobility of Yaarab Temple to make the trip, as requests for reservations early this spring induced the officials of Yaarab to request twenty-three Pullmans, and in the end being allotted only eight.

Illustrious Potentate Henry C. Heinz and Transportation Committee Chairman Byron Souders, both of whom are representatives to the Imperial Council, are in charge of the special train, which will make stops at Chicago, St. Paul, Glacier Park, Spokane and Seattle, arriving in Portland the morning of June 21. At the close of the Imperial Council meeting the special train will return to Atlanta via Shasta Springs, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park, Eagle River Canyon, Royal Gorge, Colorado Springs, Denver and Kansas City, arriving in Atlanta July 12, after a trip of over 8,000 miles requiring thirty days, including stopovers.

Yaarab's special is the only solid Shrine train to go from the southeast to the Imperial Council meeting, other temples sending only their official representatives, and some others being able to procure one or two cars which will be carried on regular trains. But Yaarab's caravan goes as befits the largest temple and largest city of the great southeast, and once more the slogan of "Atlanta Always Ahead" is made good.

All of Yaarab's famous organizations will make the trip—the Million Dollar All-Shrine band, the Famous Chanters and the prize-winning Patrol; the latter, under the leadership of Captain F. E. Van der Veer, is going to Portland determined to uphold the reputation it won at Seattle a few years ago, when the newspaper verdict acclaimed it the best-drilled patrol at the Imperial Council meeting.

The session of the national body this year has an added interest to the nearly 5,000 members of Yaarab temple, owing to the fact that it is sending Past Potentate Forrest Adair as representative for the twentieth consecutive year, and thus he becomes eligible to a life membership in the Imperial Council.

MADDOG PLAYS HAVOC IN PARLOR WHEN IMPRISONED

A big brindle bulldog disturbed the peaceful slumber of Inman Park citizens shortly before 12 o'clock Saturday night by taking possession of the parlors of E. Mifflin Hood, of 93 Elizabeth street.

The dog belonged to a neighbor and had made his way into the house, but his strange behavior led members of the Hood household to believe that he was mad. He was imprisoned in the parlor and police headquarters notified. Call Officers Allen and George Lee responded and the dog was slain.

When the officers arrived at the house the dog was playing havoc with furniture and bric-a-brac in attempting to make his escape. Officer Lee sent a bullet crashing through the animal's head, but the dog made his escape from the parlor and went to an upstairs bedroom. It is the belief of the officers that the dog was a victim of hydrophobia.

SWIMMING POOLS POPULAR SUNDAY WITH ALL AGES

With the thermometer showing a slight drop in the mercury over the two preceding days, automobile parties and trolley rides in vogue, refreshment emporiums doing a great business and the swimming pools at all of the city parks open, nobody sweltered in Atlanta on Sunday.

They autoed, or trolleyed, or sipped cool drinks, or splashed in the pools, or walked in the parks, and 92 degrees, the high mark of the day, reached at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, didn't seem so hot—at least to those in the pools. The coolest hour was at 7 o'clock in the morning, when it was delightfully comfortable at 86 degrees.

Patronage of the swimming pools included babies and grandfathers and all ages between. A regular Florida beach scene was presented at every one of the public lakes, the warmth being the sole reason for many a plunge and an added incentive to those who enjoy aquatic sport to seek the water.

Fair today and Tuesday and continued warm is the forecast from the weather bureau at Washington.

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD

Memorial services were held yesterday afternoon by the Order of Railway Conductors in the Knights of Pythias hall in the Forsyth building, during which the Rev. J. W. Ham delivered the memorial address on the "Underlying Principles of Brotherhood."

The names of the members of the order who have retired during the past year were read at the meeting, and consisted of the following:

J. D. Jackson, H. V. Jones and J. D. Goforth, of Division 457, and W. R. Elliott, C. L. Daniel, I. Heiman, C. C. Stovall and W. T. Matthews, of Division 180, O. R. C.

Music was rendered by Mrs. J. Lucas Baird, soprano, with Mrs. A. L. Stanton at the piano.

BIG CROWDS PAY VISIT TO LAKEWOOD SUNDAY

Lakewood park was the Mecca for hundreds of visitors on Sunday seeking pleasure and entertainment and relief from the heat of the city. The crowds by far exceeded those of any other Sunday since the gates were thrown open for the summer season.

A band concert proved a delightful feature of entertainment. Boating and swimming were popular pastimes, while many others strolled about the grounds under the shade of the trees. Moving pictures and dancing will be every night features.

FINE CONCERT GIVEN AT THE AUDITORIUM

About six hundred people heard the organ recital given by City Organist Charles A. Sheldon Sunday afternoon at the Auditorium. This was the first of the series of concerts to be given Sunday afternoon during the summer.

SENATE CONTROL OF WHITE HOUSE

Implied in Nomination of Harding—Senators Object to President Who Disregards Party Leaders.

By Mark Sullivan.

Chicago, Ill., June 13.—(Special.) The theory behind the nomination of Senator Harding is that the man in the whtie house should not be independent of his party leaders in the senate. If, in trying to be colloquial, you should go so far as to say that the man in the white house must not think he is bigger than the senators, you wouldn't be far wrong. He can be bigger if nature has made him so, and the senators won't mid. The thing the senators want to guarantee is that he shan't feel bigger nor act bigger.

If, in addition to having a man who is by nature disposed to seek counsel rather than act independently, you can also create a situation where the president is under personal obligations to the senators for having given him his nomination. There you have, from the standpoint of the senators, an ideal situation.

Viewpoint of Senators.

The point of view of the senators who nominated Harding is that the balance of power of this government should be, not in the white house, but in the senate. Whether you agree with this or not, it is an intelligent theory. There were three elements in the nomination of Senator Harding. The first was the senatorial group who had determined to put one of themselves in the white house. This determination was not based on mere ambition to choose one of themselves, nor merely on personal affection for an intimate of theirs, as against the other candidates.

It was based on the idea that the man in the white house should be one who will more or less defer to the leaders of his party in the senate. These republican leaders believe that it is an unsound theory of government to have in the white house a man who is markedly disposed to be independent. They think that the president of the United States should have the same relation to the leaders of his party in the senate that the president of a corporation has to his board of directors. They think the president should be a man who, in large matters of policy, adopts what is decided upon by the board of directors, and always works with the sense of responsibility to them as the final source of power.

Believe in Group Government.

These republican leaders believe that the final source of responsibility should be not an individual, but a group. That is their theory of government, and they believe that is what was meant by the founders of the constitution. They think that the president should not send legislation to congress to be passed, but that congress should send legislation to the president to be signed. You may agree with this theory or not, but it is at least an intelligent and tenable theory. That is what was at the bottom of Harding's nomination.

In terms of individuals, the senators who probably had most to do with it were Senators Smoot, of Utah, and New, of Indiana. While these two men may be named as playing leading parts, it is also true that practically every one of the old guard senators took part in it or assented to it. Senator Wadsworth, of New York, was an especially important cog in carrying out the plan. It was his New York delegation that provided the large number of fluid delegates who could be fed out to Lowden gradually in order to push Lowden ahead of Wood, and thus put Wood out in the early part of the convention.

Incident of Practical Politics.

The second element that contributed to Harding's nomination has little to do with theory or policy, but was an incident of practical politics. It was a perfectly legitimate thing and was managed with such technical skill as must command the admiration of any one whose interests were not injured by its operation. The chief figure in this part was an old-time politician from Indiana, Joseph B. Kealing. Kealing, together with a number of other old guard politicians, had surveyed the delegates all over the country. He had found among them about 200 who were uninstructed and unpledged and had no marked personal affiliations. Kealing and his associates, long before the convention met, had drawn these delegates into a loosely compact group.

Their agreement d'd not look to any candidate and did not go farther than merely an understanding to act together under a common leadership when the convention should meet. It was this group of fluid delegates that made possible that manipulation of votes from place to place during the early ballots which was so essential to the success of the senatorial group when the convention met and the senators took charge.

Daugherty's Great Work.

The third element in the nomination of Harding was a pure case of personality. It was an Ohio politician, Harry Daugherty. Daugherty was Harding's campaign manager, and it was sheer brains and will on the part of Daugherty that pulled Harding through handicaps and misadventure which would have killed off any other candidate months ago, and which every observer believed had killed Harding off. It was Daugherty who, together with the senators, originally persuaded Harding to get in the race in order to stop Wood's momentum last December. It was Daugherty that persuaded Harding to remain in the race on occasion after occasion when Harding had lost his taste for it and wanted to withdraw. It was Daugherty who came to Washington time upon time to stiffen the senators up after they had ceased to believe the plan could be carried out. Daugherty is an able and masterful person with a natural gift for politics, and great determination and capacity for untiring work. Whether you like Daugherty or not, take off your hat to a man who can put things through.

Exposures Hurt Wood and Lowden.

These three elements combined to name Harding. But there was one other thing. The plan never could have been put through but for the campaign fund disclosures affecting Wood and Lowden. Lacking that incident it would not have been possible to put through so thorough-going defiance of the results of the primaries. In fact, the senatorial group which first planned the Harding nomination later gave it up because of the failure of Harding in the Ohio primaries, and the successes of Wood and Lowden. But the campign fund disclosures brought the opportunity back and gave them their eleventh-hour chance to put through the Harding coup.

POLITICAL EYES ON BUCKEYE STATE

of both by the democrats. The states are, first, Ohio, which in the national campaigns republicans have lost has gone democratic. The second state is New York, which always is doubtful.

To get the strongest possible movement under way in these two major battlefields, Charlie Hilles, national committeeman from New York, a native of Ohio and Taft's manager in 1912, will be chairman of a subcommittee of the national committee, to stake out Harding's campaign.

The third state is California. California went democratic in 1916 because of the influence of Hiram Johnson. Johnson is no happier this year than he was after the convention in 1916. "What will he do?" is a question asked by the republican leaders. Especially do they wonder what he will do in California. Johnson's friends and Johnson himself have intimated frequently that unless he were nominated a continuation of the democratic party in power was possible.

The Fourth Fighting State.

The fourth fighting state will be Massachusetts, stronghold of Irish democrats, and always a doubtful state. The nomination of Coolidge was agreed upon from the first for its pulling power in this state.

Finally there is Indiana, which has a tremendous industrial vote, and is a live "Roosevelt progressive" stronghold. In the primaries held in this state Wood and Johnson polled the big votes. Johnson sweeping the industrial centers. Harding ran far behind all of the other contenders.

And there also are many who believe that the split in the republican ranks of Illinois caused by the fight between Lowden and Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, may bring Illinois into the doubtful column this year. Thompson bolted the convention and his forces supported Johnson. Lowden has come out strongly for Harding, and in the window of his deserted headquarters Sunday there hung the following sign: "We are for Harding and Coolidge.

Harding Plans ToRunCampaign From His Lawn

Senator Will Adopt Custom of McKinley—Harding Welcomed to Washington.

Marion, Ohio, June 13.—United States Senator Warren G. Harding will be officially notified of his nomination for the presidency by the republican party in his home in Marion within the next few days, it became known today.

It also became known that Senator Harding will adopt the custom of former President McKiney and receive party leaders at his home for conferences during the summer. These conferences will be held on the lawn in front of the Harding residence.

HARDING WELCOMED TO WASHINGTON.

Washington, June 13.—The special train bringing Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, republican presidential nominee, from Chicago to Washington, was delayed more than an hour en route, but the crowd of republican leaders and friends which had gathered at the union station tonight to greet him, faced the delay without abatement of enthsiasm.

The Boy Scout band, of Oil City, Pa., which was selected as the official band to meet the nominee, reached the station early and undertook to entertain the crowd there with popular airs, but terminal officials objected on the ground that this would inconvenience occupants of sleeping cars on nearby tracks. The band took up station in a square in front of the depot and there practiced the airs which had been selected for the greeting of the republican candidate.

The Boy Scout band has been in Washington on a sightseeing tour, and it was selected to welcome Senator Harding because of the important part Pennsylvania's delegation to the Chicago convention played in bringing about the senator's nomination.

Chicago, June 13.—Before departing for Washington, Senator Hiram Johnson sent the following telegram to Senator Harding:

"Congratulations to you.

"HI JOHNSON."

Either Father Or a Husband Killed Elwell

Police Convinced Turfman and Whist Expert Was Murdered About a Woman.

New York, June 13.—The theory of suicide was virtually abandoned by the police tonight in the mysterious death of Joseph B. Elwell, wealthy turfman and noted whist authority, who was found in his home last Friday with a bullet wound in his head. Insistence of many of the sportsman's friends that jealousy may have played an important part in the supposed murder stirred the twenty-five detectives on the case to renewed activity in tracing his women acquaintances, and men with whom he played bridge for high stakes. A thorough search of the house failed to produce the slightest clue, not even a finger print, Police Captain Walsh said.

Assistant District Attorney John E. Joyce today belittled the report that women friends of the dead man had keys to his home. He said the statement originally attributed to Elwell's chauffeur was absurd, as there were only two keys, one held by the housekeeper and the other by Mr. Elwell.

Two Women Questioned.

Several additional persons who knew the whist expert were questioned at the Elwell home today, among them Countess S. de Szinawska, and her sister, Mrs. L. Hardy. Neither would discuss the case.

According to Assistant District Attorney Joyce, the sisters, who were born in Poland, met the turfman in Carlsbad, Bohemia, early in the war, while at the watering place with members of their family. The two women left Carlsbad in September, 1914, and came to New York, where they have lived since. A short time later, Mr. Joyce said, Elwell returned to America.

The countess and her sister admitted, the assistant district attorney stated, that their friendship with Elwell was broken after they heard he had made a remark associating them with German interests. This resulted, Mr. Joyce said, in the detention of the countess as an enemy alien two years ago.

Their friendship was never resumed, they said, although Elwell had gone to Washington and had straightened out the affair as far as he was concerned. Both told Mr. Joyce they had not seen Elwell for a year prior to his death. The countess denied she had ever entered the Elwell home, but her sister admitted she had visited the house on one occasion.

Killed by Father or Husband.

Some of the turfmen's friends advance the theory that he had been killed by a "father or a husband."

It was learned that the day before his death Elwell sold one if his race horses to G. C. Winfrey, formerly a trainer in his employe, for $5,600. He received the payment in cash.

Every taxicab driver in the district from Forty-second street to West Seventieth street, where Mr. Elwell lived, has been questioned by detectives in an effort to find the cab in which he may have been driven to his home early Friday morning. The police are investigating a report that Elwell was seen in a cabaret after leaving friends with whom he had attended a theater party Thursday night. "In all my twenty-five years' service in the detective bureau," said Captain Walsh, who is directing the hunt for the murderer, "I have never known a more baffling case."

Police suspicion tonight was concentrated on two club men, both acquaintances of Elwell. One of them, the police said, had left the city when detectives called at his apartment. According to the police, the missing man had made arrangements for his departure the day before the murder and had left about the time Elwell was killed.

BACKHANDED SLAP AT G. O. P. BY COLBY

Secretary of State Raps G. O. P. League Position at Flag Day Exercises. President Wilson Sends Message.

Washington, June 13.—Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, speaking this evening at the Flag-day exercises of the Washington Lodge of Elks, declared the American flag cannot be an emblem of retreat "upon that field of highest service, the rescue of a world, to which our destiny as a nation calls us."

President Wilson sent a message in which he expressed regret at being unable to attend in person, and discussed loyalty.

Colby's speech was regarded as a back-handed slap at the position of the republicans on the league of nations and foreign relations generally.

Speaking of the republican national convention, Colby said:

"There have been some allusions to country in the outgivings which have reached us from the convention city, but a great deal more has been said about party and party success. How right and proper—indeed, how fortunate—that Flag day comes swiftly on the heels of a period so given over to personal striving and selfish turmoil."

Colby gave his ideas of what American foreign policy should be in these words:

Colby's Foreign Attitude.

"It is no flag for a nation which is selfish. It is no flag for a people which is pusillanimous. It is not an appropriate banner for a policy of declared indifference to the sufferings or the future of the world. Policies so un-American as these must find some other emblem. The American flag speaks today, as it has always spoken, a message of cheer and help to the oppressed; a clear note of leadership to the aspiring in all lands; a note of aid and succor to liberty whenever liberty falters or is assailed.

"It is the flag of a peace-loving, a benevolent and an unafraid nation. It speaks for the redemption and not the repudiation of the nation's pledges. No policy of selfish aloofness, no policy of callous detachment from life and the world can find shelter under its folds. It is the flag of work, of service, of courage. It is the flag of chivalrous men and noble women.

"It is a flag of glory. It is a flag which has moved forward on every field, never backward; and today and at this hour, it cannot be the emblem of a moral retreat upon that field of highest service, the rescue of a world, to which our destiny as a nation calls us."

The President's Message.

President Wilson sent this message:

"I wish with all my heart that I could be present at the loyalty demonstration which is being planned for the evening of June 14. I shall certainly be present in spirit, though circumstances prevent my being present in body.

"Fortunately for us Americans, loyalty is not so much a compulsion of duty as a compulsion of the heart. In being loyal we are being true to ourselves, to the principles in which we were nurtured and bred and which we have long recognized as a true expression of our national character and purpose, and I believe that as the years go by and the policy of the country develops along consistent lines, loyalty will grow warmer and warmer until it consumes everything that is base or hostile."

A. Corbitt Announces.

Waycross, June 13.—(Special.)—Opposing Jesse M. Pafford, of Willacoochee, who made his announcement several weeks ago for representative of Atkinson county in the general assembly of Georgia, is A. Corbitt, also of Willacoochee, who announced last week. Mr. Corbitt has been a resident of Willacoochee and vicinity for many years and has many supporters throughout the county. Mr. Pafford also has many admirers in the county and the race promises to be an interesting affair.

Altamaha Bridge.

Savannah, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—H. H. Dean, of Gainesville here today in connection with business concerning the G. C. and P. railroad, which he bought when it was junked, declared that he would sell the Altamaha bridge. Brunswick business interests are said to want it to convert it to automobile and general traffic. It was said the price at which bridge was held was too high, but Mr. Dean declared while he fixed a price, he has agreed to leave the figures to arbitration or to a price named in condemnation process.

WHO WILL CARRY DEMOCRATIC FLAG?

McAdoo, Palmer and Davis Most Prominently Mentioned — Marked Drift Toward Palmer.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

Chicago, June 13.—(Special.)—The nomination of Harding and Coolidge by the republicans has started speculation as to the democratic standard bearers.

There are a great many democratic leaders in Chicago who have been watching the G. O. P. show, while en route to the convention city on the coast, who are of the opinion that the selection of Harding gives Governor Cox, of Ohio the decided advantage. The greater number, however, take the reverse position, that in party interest Cox should be the made the nominee for vice president from geographical strategy, the Ohio executive measuring up to the acid test of administration loyalty, but that the presidential nomination should now by all odds go to the east.

McAdoo, Palmer, Davis.

In this connection the three names most prominently mentioned are McAdoo, Palmer and John W. Davis, of West Virginia. There has been a decided movement the past few days for Davis, who is at present the ambassador to Great Britain, a strong Wilson democrat and a party power for a number of years.

Since the nomination of Coolidge, however, the drift has been decidedly toward Palmer, the logic of the argument being that, owing to the republican capitalization of Coolidge by reason of the firm stand he took for law and order in the Boston policemen strike, the democratic party should make law and order against "redism" and bolshevism one of its main vote-appealing domestic issues.

In that connection it is held that Palmer, whose activities in that respect are paramount to that of any other American, more closely fits the opportunity for the democrats not only to meet this issue, but to overshadow it with a candidate whose record is more outstanding in that matter.

McAdoo's Chances.

Ex-Secretary McAdoo, who has been in Chicago during the past week, is a popular favorite as a man of poise and ability, but it is now recognized generally from the republican platform and the keynote address of Senator Lodge that the republican fight is also to be waged directly against the so-called Wilson dynasty, and there is no secret as to the determination to fortify the party as much as practicable against enemy attack where such can be done without yielding, sacrificing or compromising on any of the big upstanding principles of democracy as exemplified in the existing administration.

There is such a factor as party expediency in candidate-making, however, much may be said and written to the contrary, and it is not impossible that this will work against the interests of McAdoo when the nominating day arrives.

At any rate, that Davis and Palmer will both have to be reckoned with in making an eastern choice, now seems assured.

Bryan to Fight.

William J. Bryan has announced that he will personally lead the fight against the nomination of Cox. It is possible he will do this against anybody except himself, and the friends of Cox are not losing any sleep on that score.

There is one great fact as plain as the peak on the plains, and that is no person will be considered at San Francisco who is not a loyal, consistent, 100 per cent administration supporter, and the democratic hosts will give no more encouragement to insurgency there than did the republican hosts encourage Johnson and Borah and the republican insurgents here.

POLES ARE DRIVEN BY THE BOLSHEVIKI

They Have Begun to Evacuate Kiev and Are Retreating to New Line of Defense in th Ukraine.

Warsaw, June 13.—The Polish forces, carrying out orders to retreat to a new line of defense in the Ukraine, have commenced the evacuation of Kiev, having previously destroyed the bridges over the Dnieper, according to an official statement issued today.

North of Kiev the Poles are battling against the bolsheviki, who are endeavoring to cut the Korosten-Kiev railroad to join forces with the cavalry of General Buedenny, which is striking northerly from the region southwest of Kiev, fighting is general all along the Berdichev-Fastova-Kiev railroad.

According to latest reports, the territory in this region is changing hands daily. In a dash to the northwest the cavalry of General Buedenny passed Berdichev, killing peasants en route. It proceeded as far as Zhitomir, where it is alleged the cavalry killed several wounded Poles in a hospital.

Fighting on the northern front has brought victory to the Poles, who have ousted the bolsheviki from territory gained in the recent offensive. The Poles are consolidating their lines from the Dvina southward along the Beresina.

Poles Blow Up Cathedral.

London, June 13.—Before evacuating Kiev, according to the latest bolshevik communique, issued yesterday, the Poles blew up the Vladimir cathedral, the railway stations the electric power station and the aqueduct. Destruction of the latter, the communique says, doomed the population to the horror of epidemics. The communique adds:

"Capture of Kiev was effected by the bolsheviki debouching to the rear of the enemy and capturing the Kiev-Korosten railroad in the Korodianka Tedrev sector. We then crossed the Dnieper river and entered the city. Near Vasilkoff we defeated the enemy, who is fleeing in panic northwestward, abandoning military transports.

"In the Crimea after three days' fighting we have taken 3,000 prisoners."

G.O.P. LABOR STAND INVITES ARGUMENT

If Enmity of Labor Proves to Be an Advantage, the Republican Party Will Enjoy the Advantage in Full.

BY WILLIAM SLAVENS M'NUTT.
United News Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, June 13.—It may be that this year the qualified enmity of organized labor and the sympathies of the organized labor movement will prove to be a political asset. If the enmity of labor proves to be an advantage, it is an advantage that will be enjoyed to the fullest by the republican party.

It is probably the belief of the party leaders that the loss of the labor vote will be more than made up by the support of the great majority of the average people, ranked neither as members of organized labor nor as capitalists, who, it is widely believed, are totally out of sympathy with labor's present demands and with the actions of labor unions since the armistice.

Be that as it may, the fact is that if labor had been given the free choice of a president, Senator Harding would have been one of the last three chosen from the field of candidates. The last three chosen in such a manner would have been Governor Henry Allen, of Kansas; Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts, and Senator Harding, probably in the order named. Harding is regarded by labor as an extreme reactionary, and while he is not as cordially disliked as Allen or Coolidge, he has his work cut out for him to make any political headway with members of union labor or those who are in sympathy with them.

Harding, Coolidge and Labor.

With Governor Coolidge as vice presidential candidate, the party presents to labor voters two of the last three men in the party that labor would have selected for either president or vice president, standing on a platform containing a labor plank about as unsatisfactory to the American Federation of Labor as any that could have been inserted.

But it is remembered by the powers that be in the republican party that there was a strong reaction of the press of both parties against the police strike in Boston last year. It is widely believed that this reaction was a true reflection of popular opinion. It is remembered, also, that it was on the tide of this reaction that Governor Collidge first floated into popular notice and approval.

When the police struck in Boston and rioting occurred in the city, Governor Coolidge took the situation in hand and the gubernatorial hand which took action was not encased in a kid glove nor palsied by any fear of consequences. Coolidge called out the militia to police the city of Boston in the emergency, and, refusing to recognize or in any way deal with the striking officers, maintained order with his state force until a new organization of city policemen was recruited, trained and put in service.

Governor Coolidge was vehement in his denial of the right of public servants, such as police, firemen, etc., to strike at any time, under any circumstances, or to have any affiliation whatsoever with the American Federation of Labor or kindred bodies.

Coolidge's Strike Action.

The governor was widely commended for his action by a wide range of American citizens, but none of the praise he received was written or spoken by any bona-fide member of a labor union.

In the mind of organized labor today Coolidge is ranked with Allen and Palmer as among the leaders of those who are working to bind the unions with legal fetters that would prevent free action. It is believed, however, by many political weather prophets that a storm of popular indignation against uncontrolled strike action and those who foster or induce such action will break this year. If this be true, Coolidge, with his strong-hand record of last year in the police strike, will prove to be a vote-getter of ability.

With Harding and Coolidge nominated and the republican party on record with what labor chooses to regard as an anti-labor plank, immediate interest is centered on speculation as to what appeal the democrats may have to make to labor in their platform and candidates at San Francisco. It is recognized that the republicans here have stolen whatever anti-labor thunder there may prove to be in the predicted popular storm next November. Only by an unqualified indorsement of the injunction proceedings against the coal miners last year and the nomination of Attorney General Palmer can the democrats hope to affront organized labor as seriously as the republicans have done.

It is doubtful, even if they took such drastic action, that they could win from the republicans any great percentage of the support of those who are believed to be inimical to labor in its present ambitions. The democrats have much to lose and little to gain by the action above described.

But granting the possibility—and it may be legitimately granted—that the predicted storm of popular anti-labor sentiment does not break, or proves to be but an idle and wandering breeze, the democrats have a wonderful opportunity.

The democrats have McAdoo.

Organizd labor is friendly to him, very friendly; organized labor remembers gratefully that during the conference of coal operators and coal miners at Washington last year, after Fuel Administrator Garfield had declared that the miners were entitled to an increase of not more than 14 per cent, McAdoo sent to Garfield and made public a telegram declaring that income tax statements submitted in 1917 showed that coal operators were making profits of from 150 to 2,000 per cent on invested capital, and insisting that the miners should be given the 60 per cent raise that they demanded.

The railway workers are for McAdoo—strong.

Labor Likes McAdoo.

Standing on a party platform containing a reasonably liberal labor plank, McAdoo could probably win to the democratic party almost the entire labor vote. It is a question, of course, how great a percentage of the anti-labor or non-labor vote he would lose by the campaign he would have to make to win the unions. It is probable, however, that any votes he would alienate from himself and his party by such a campaign are already in the republican vest pocket, and there is always the pre-election possibility that these votes are not so numerous as the owner of the vest pocket in which they repose have been led to believe.

ATLANTAN HONORED

WILLARD C. PATTERSON.

Willard Patterson Home From Meeting Of Big Movie Men

Willard Patterson, one of the most popular memoers of the local amusement colony, returned to Atlanta yesterday after attending the organization meeting of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, held at Cleveland, at which he was elected vice president.

"At this meeting the south certainly was given her share of the honors," said Mr. Patterson. "Men well known in the movie world of the south were given most important appointments.

"The convention was called as a result of a preliminary meeting held in Chicago some six weeks ago for the purpose of taking concerted action to prevent an effort now on foot to bring all the movie houses of the country under one control, and to practically consolidate the exhibiting and the producing ends of the industry, which we believe would work to the detriment of our patrons.

"There were some 900 delegates present, representing nearly 7,000 houses. It was plainly evident that the exhibitors were in earnest, and it was decided to raise at once a war fund of $100,000. Some of the biggest exhibitors in the country joined the association.

"Sidney Cohen, a well-known figure in the New York exhibiting field, was elected president."

EUROPEAN CABINETS FORCED FROM OFFICE

Paris, June 13.—The simultaneous resignation of four European cabinets—the Italian, Polish, Hungarian and Austrian—is viewed in official circles here to be significant chiefly as demonstrating the difficulty of adopting politics and economic conditions to the peace terms.

The immediate causes of the resignations were different in each case, but behind them, said a well-informed French diplomat today, were economic ideas, and general pangs on the part of the defeated peoples not reconciled to the sacrifices demanded of them.

The young parliamentary governments, this diplomat declared, are likely to be susceptible to these crises for some time to come, until the political situation has crystallized and the various parties become so organized as to furnish homogeneous majorities behind the cabinets.

The diplomat pointed out that the older governments—Italy, for instance—were suffering from similar trouble during the transitory period of recovery from the war waste. The bread situation was given as the immediate cause for the resignation of Premier Nitti, but this, the diplomat said, he did not consider to be the determining influence, but rather, only one incident among many which, in the absence of any homogenous majority in parliament, make the government of the country a most difficult problem.

Of the five crises now in course of solution, only the Italian and German are giving concern here, officials declared today. It was said the advent of former Premier Giolitti in the Italian situation provoked apprehension of a tendency on the part of Italy toward a separate policy with regard to Germany, while the German situation was being watched with the greatest interest because of the possibility of a reaction which might mean resistance to execution of the treaty of Versailles.

Chickasaws and Locals Open Series Today

Edited by Cliff Wheatley

SIX MORE BATTLES AT HOME

Commencing today Atlanta will play at home for the balance of the week. The first division of the week will be spent in trying to wrest from the Chicks enough games to catapult the home team from the second division and the final three days will usher in a stupendous undertaking in the form of trying to keep Kid Elberfeld's fence busters from gaining a firmer hold on to the head of the line of march.

The Volunteers left Atlanta after their last game Saturday afternoon for their home state, however, dropping off at Chattanooga for a Sunday game with the Lookouts. Today they hit the trail for Louisiana and will gird on their armor for a tilt with the New Orleans nine. The last half of the week they will tackle the Bears in their lair, ending the series on Sunday.

After leaving Atlanta the Chicks set sail for Slagtown, being scheduled for three days' play against the Barons. The Barons will also have the week on their own lot, the first foe being the Travelers.

Chattanooga plays all their games of the week on foreign territory. The Lookouts will couch their lances for a three days' joust against the Bears and the following four days will find them in New Orleans, doing battle with the Pels.

Chicks Tame Bears.

Mobile, Ala., June 13.—Memphis made it three out of four in the series by defeating Mobile today by a score of 9 to 4. Five pitchers were used during the game, three by Mobile. Memphis overcame a lead of three runs by hard hitting.

Lookouts Win One, Tie One.

Chattanooga, June 13.—York shut Nashville out in the first game of today's double-header, a muffed throw at the plate giving Chattanooga's single run and victory. The second was a 10-10 tie at the end of the seventh, when the game was called. After the home team had hit Lankenau for seven runs the visitors scored nine runs after two were out in the fifth inning, two muffs of high flies preceding a series of hits.

Pels Win Two

New Orleans, June 13.—New Orleans deefated Little Rock twice today, winning the first game by the score by 5 to 0, and the second 2 to 1. Phillips was hit hard, but Little Rock was unable to bunch its hits in the first game, while the locals got to Hengeveld in the fourth for three runs.

In the second game, which went seven innings, by agreement, the visitors were unable to hit Walker, and the locals went scoreless until the sixth, when Knaup knocked one over the fence for a home run, Neusel doubled and scored when Deberry doubled.

U. S. GOLFERS WON'T ENTER OLYMPIC

Philadelphia, June 13.—An American golf team will not compete in the Olympics at Antwerp, according to an announcement by Max Marston, of this city, who was chosen to captain the team and who had charge of the arrangements. Marston said that, after making reservations for a team of eight men to sail on June 25, he had found it impossible to get a representative team together.

Out of eleven men invited to make the trip, he said, only two, Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, and himself, definitely had accepted. Two others, Robert Gardner, of Chicago, and Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, are already abroad, and promised to play in Olympic team. The United States golf association, Marston said, wanted at least eight men.

YANKS MADE BEST RECORD LAST WEEK

New York, June 13.—Cincinnati ousted Brooklyn from the National league leadership to day, while the New York Americans overwhelmed Cleveland and brought about a virtual tie in that league.

With the two leading teams with the two fighting each other, the St. Louis Nationals loom up as a rival to Cincinnati and Brooklyn. The American league leaders, however, enjoy a good lead and are going at a good gait.

Cincinnati was far from world series form in the New York series, but showed to better advantage against Brooklyn. Brooklyn is averaging only about two runs a game since returning to its home grounds, while the pitchers are proving in effective against the western visitors. St. Louis, in the midst of its first winning streak, is meeting little opposition in the east. The Cardinals have won 11 of their last 14 games. Chicago dropped from the top of the league to fourth place in two weeks, winning yesterday its first victory in 11 games. Boston and Pittsburg showed much improvement over the previous week. The exchange of shortstops by New York and Philadelphia apparently gave new life to both teams, as the Quakers had their first winning week in a month and the Giants began to play steadier.

In the American league, Cleveland and New York seemingly have little to fear at present from other teams. Good pitching aided the Indians last week, but today the Yankees pounded their pitchers for 18 hits and New York averaged 7 runs a game in the last 24 contests, of which it won 20.

Boston ended its losing streak when it went west last week, taking three games out of four from Chicago by good batting and steady pitching. St. Louis found the Red Sox twirlers easily. Chicago hit hard in its other games and downed Washington today for the second time. Washington and St. Louis are putting up a strong attack, but the senators are being scored upon heavily. Detroit's second victory over Philadelphia today pitched the Athletics into last place, which the Tigers had been occupying since the season began.

The week's record in each league of games played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors, men left on bases and runs scored, including games of June 12, is as follows:

Oglethorpe Loses Valuable Worker In Bob Nicholes

By Joe Butterly.

When Oglethorpe university closes its doors for this scholastic year, there passes from the rolls of the gridiron, diamond, court and classroom one student with possibly the best all round record of achievement for his alma mater than any other who ever entered its portals. Bob Nichols, since his enrollment four years ago, has put sense of duty to his college far above his personal pleasure and has worked unremittently for the glory of the institution that he chose to champion.

In athletics Bob has shown brilliantly, but even the iridescence of his athletic career has been backgrounded into an eclipse by the outside work he has done to make his alma mater shine in every line of activity.

For four years Bob made his letter on the gridiron team and in 1918 he captained the pigskin warriors. In 1917, '18 and '19 he was a member of the Oglethorpe base ball nine and held a place for one year in track and basketball. During his first year in college he was elected president of the athletic association.

Other honors achieved by Bob in his four years at Oglethorpe include membership in the "Boar's Head," the only honor society of the university; toastmaster of the 1918-19 football banquets, organizer and president of the "O" club, founder, general manager and sporting editor of The Petrel and advertising manager and sporting editor of The Yamacraw. Bob was given honorable mention by several coaches to the position of all-southern tackle.

Sir Robert has for many moons been The Constitution's correspondent at Oglethorpe and his work has always been of the highest order.

As a token of the esteem in which he is held by the faculty and students and as an appreciation for the interest taken and his activities for the advancement of the institution in athletics and other lines of college endeavor, Bob was presented with a gold medal at their recent banquet.

Furthermore, he was given the distinctive honor by the students of being the most loyal student who ever battled with Analyt and Latin under the watchful care of the Oglethorpe professors. Bob was instrumental in bringing Frank Anderson to the college as baseball coach.

Sir Robert is contemplating entering Princeton next fall, and he will leave with the good will and bon voyage of his fellow students of the last four years and with the reputation that he had acquired during the four years that he has devoted to college activities. He will be sorely missed by his friends and the institution that he has so materially aided in guiding to a place among the foremost colleges of the south.

Ancient Rivals Will Battle

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

Three Days at Ponce DeLeon

Minus the services of their pilot, John McCloskey; who was indefinitely suspended by President John D. Martin Saturday night, the Memphis Chicks arrived in the big town last night, and are set for action against Charlie Frank's Atlanta hirelings. The series will last for three days, and the Tennesseans will be relieved in these parts by Kid Elberfeld and his Little Rock Travelers. Just now, the Kid is going along with his diplomatic relations with the Southern league broken half in two, but that is a chronic state with the commanding officer of the Kiddery.

The Chicks are certain of their ability to lick the Crackers, but the local pastimers are openly afraid of the mighty warriors that compose the invading hordes. At this particular writing, the Memphians aren't playing the brand of ball that the scribes in the city of the tribe greet with any joyful articles, while the Frankmen are looking a wee bit better than they did some days ago.

Slumping has been the favorite fruit around the village of the tribe of late, and we see no reason for the Frankmen to quake in fear at the approach of McCloskey's clan or apple orchard employees. It's a good machine, but it's possible for the best of the makes to suffer a breakdown, and it might be that the recent defeats signify the fatal scribbling on the wall for the Chickasaws.

Chicks Have Hard Hitters.

McCloskey has a great bunch of batters on his roster, and most of them, from the lead-off to the pitchers, are capable of sticking out some wicked wallops with the bludgeon. His pitchers, aside from Vance, have always been touched consistently by the Crackers, and if the jinx that has been dogging Charlie Frank's footsteps during the greater part of this season will cancel his calling dates in this vicinity, the Frankmen might come across with a good slice of revenge for the rough treatment they received in Memphis some few days ago.

The Chicks are coming in with bells ringing, and a victorious stride that bespeaks ample confidence, but we've noticed the Crackers have a sometimes unpleasant manner of springing surprises, and the Chicks might become dazed before the series is brought to an end. There is some bit of satisfaction in realizing that the locals can't do any worse on the Poncey diamond than they did recently in the wigwams of the Chicks at Memphis. We can't look for any worse, so the only prediction left is that the Crackers will spring one of their huge surprises and yank a majority of the games with Mr. McCloskey's brood.

This is McCloskey's first year in the Southern league, and, while he to all appearances has given Memphis a team any city would be proud to call its own, we can't say with any enthusiasm that Chieftain Jawn is winning himself a million friends over the circuit. In some respects, Manager McCloskey is peculiarly akin to Kid Elberfeld, and, while the fans of Martin's circuit like to see plenty of pep and initiative in a field director, there is such a thing as overstepping the mark. And it looks like the Kid and Mr. McCloskey are just about ready to stick their trilbies over the line that divides aggressiveness from rowdyism.

Chicks Hard on Umpires.

The last visit of the Chicks to Atlanta was marred by continual strife between the umpires and men under command of Manager McCloskey. If we recall correctly, Umpires Gifford and Kerin had charge of the officiating during that series, and we'll say both indicator handlers had their share of entertainment. In the first game, the fans of Atlanta will recall, Infielders Lewis and Blades were ushered from the game because of their tendency to cast a few verbal lemons and ripe eggs at the person of Mr. Gifford. Blades especially had a delightful time, and Officer McEwen, one of the handsome patrolmen of Chief Beavers' staff, was called to show the peppery player to the exits.

As we stated, nearly every fan wants to see spirit prevailing on the field, but they dislike rowdyism. We refer in this connection to the Atlanta fans, because we suppose the Little Rock and Memphis spectators would demand rain checks unless 50 per cent of both teams were relegated to the cooler by the "umpiratical" gentry. Let's trust that no lives will be lost during the present series; let's see the Chicks get through three games at least without having to decorate the "flag fund" with hard-earned shekels.

Lefty Suggs Will Work.

While there is nothing definite to base a prediction on, the slabmen, Messrs. Frank, Kauffman and Mayer will nominate this afternoon, Johnny Suggs, with a platform filled with explosives directed against John McCloskey and his crew, looks to be the best caindidate the F. K. M. party can put forth to win on the first ballot. So we assert that Lefty Suggs, handsome sidewheeler, will be pitted against the gentleman John McCloskey sends to the rubber. If Suggs is "right," the Chicks are in for a classy beating on the diamond at Ponce de Leon this afternoon, and we don't know of any cause that can prevent the young man from being in the best of shape. Suggs looked like a million dollars against the Volunteers several days ago, and he'll have to show a great reversal of form if he isn't good enough to lick the Chicks today.

* * * * *

Week Will Be Hard Sailing for Crackers.

With the advent of the Chicks this afternoon, and the Little Rock Travelers opening Thursday for three games, the week's schedule leads us to believe that the locals must play real basebal if they are to hit the road and leave behind them a memory of a successful home stay.

It's tough that the Crackers had to grab off the league leaders at this time. Prexy Frank has promized to strengthen the line-up and perhaps it wouldn't have been a bad idea to test the additions while pitted against the clubs that are closer to the Frankmen in the league standing.

The schedule calls for the Frankmen to sepnd practically the whole of the next two weeks playing against the Chicks and the Travelers, and it will take a better game than the boys have been playing to negotiate these dangerous shoals without coming face to face with disaster. The fates throw out a little hope in the thought that the Memphis team has not been going so well lately, and there might be considerable in the report that a jinx has annexed itself to the bludgeous of the Tennesseeans.

Powerful Attack.

We see no signs of weakness in the team that Kid Elberfeld packs round the southern circuit. In fact, the damage being wrought by the battering ram in the hands of Bing Miller, Frierson Wano, Moore and several others we know of, is mounting to higher figures every day, and unless the various pitchers of the Southern league discover some twist that'll fool the pastimers of the Kiddery, the Travelers are going to hammer their way to a pennant. The attack of the club is terrible, and no bet against the boys on the other side of the big stream is a safe one unless the Kid's batters are at least 75 runs behind. From Bing to the bat boy, the Travelers are capable of punching long clouts, and they are certainly around the top of the pile to stick.

Billy Hooper Opens Fight Club Tonight.

Twenty-two rounds of slugging ring work between several colored arena gladiators of Atlanta will feature the opening of Billy Hooper's Auburn avenue fight club tonight. One of the best known of the local colored fighters himself, Billy is undertaking to put boxing within his race on a sound basis. Hooper has been a favorite for years with the Atlanta railbirds, and has always been noted for giving the spectators the best he had in him, which is quite a bit.

Hooper and Silent Happy, a colored challenger, will fight ten rounds in the main event of the evening, and Billy stated yesterday that he was going to do his best to reduce his opponent to a state of abject humiliation. We have never seen Silent Happy fight, but we'll say this much for him, if he succeeds in making good his boast that he will put Billy away for the sleepy count, his services will be very much in demand at the local shows. Hooper has won so many bouts before Atlanta ring game lovers that he's regarded as the one unbeatable pugilist in this city, and the battler who conquers him will be a great drawing card locally, at least.

Billy's card will open with a battle royal, if promises made to him by a dozen young negro boys are kept. Hooper states that all of these boys are under ten years of age, and that the ring will be crowded with little dots of ink trying to blot out each other. The preliminaries include one four-round bout, with an eight-frame fracas affording the semi-windup. Special seats have been provided for the white fans and the first bout starts promptly at 9 o'clock.

Babe Ruth Again Pays A Large Melon Slice.

Babe Ruth brought the highest price ever given for a baseball player, or any other kind of player, and the wisdom of the magnates who purchased him is proven every time his latest escapade with the willow finds its way into the sporting columns. Ruth is today the greatest drawing card in any branch of athletics, and he is proving a gold mine to Colonel Ruppert and his associates, who were dubbed insane when the announcement was made that the Red Sox had sold Babe Ruth for a price reputed to have been $137,500.

The Giants, since the pastime was organized, the favorites of the Gotham fans, have been forsaken in the mad rush of the New York public to see Babe Ruth pick out nice landing places for the apple beyond the space of the Polo grounds, and when the Yankees go on the road the attendance at the New York diamond dwindles to almost nothing.

Officials of the New York Nationals have realized by this time the need of some player capable of causing a few thousands of Babe's supporters to desert his standard, and for some time, the money kings behind the Giants have been looking for this rival. There have been hints that John McGraw was after Hornsby, the greatest hot corner artist in the world, and the Cardinals' one best appeal to the thrill seekers of the National league. This report has it that New York offered $200,000 and a flock of players for Hornsby's services, and that the proposition was politely turned down by the St. Louis officials.

Not for a Million.

"Not fora million," was their cry, and we have a hunch that the stockholders of the Red Sox, who passed on the Ruth sale last winter, just now wish they had cast the same remark when Colonel Ruppert waved a moneyed fist at them. The Sox have been going well since the opening of the season and if they only had Ruth's offensive strength to aid the machine it would be a good bet that the American league, and, maybe, the world's diamond title, would rest for one year at least in the Hub.

There's no doubt about Colonel Ruppert's sagacity. People who at first thought of having him examined by capable alienists now dub him to succeed John D. as the owner of the best-filled wallet in the universe, and, if Ruth's work continues, it's possible that he'll make the colonel enough jack to make Rockefeller's pile look like a Liberty bond selling campaign in an almshouse.

One More League Opens In Georgia This Week.

Many fans of Atlanta will attend the opening games of the North Georgia league Wednesday, interest in the league locally being large, due to the number of Fulton county citizens, who were formerly residents of the cities comprising the league. These cities are as follows: Winder, Commerce, Thomson, Elberton, Madison and Washington. The business men of these enterprising towns are very enthusiastic over the prospects and from the caliber of players they have signed to represent the cities in the league the playing will be much better than that usually witnessed in the smaller circuits.

The league, while it will be governed by certain of the rules that legislate over organized baseball, is not a member of the National Baseball association, and by virtue of this, the teams are enabled to pay more money for their players, as we understand no salary limit has been placed. Many of the Southern league veterans have signed with this league, among them Bob Higgins, former field director of the Atlanta club, and Milton Reed, with Atlanta last summer, when he was on leave of absence from the United States army, where he held the rank of captain.

Real Money Paid for Players.

It takes real money to get such players as Higgins and Reed, and the fact that both were signed by the Winder club illustrates in a vivid manner the financial support that is being accorded this club. The Winder outfit, however, is simply one of six, and the other teams are not being cramped for liberal allowances of the long green so necessary these days in building up winning diamond combinations.

Several players now in the uniforms of the Southern league have been offered places by the cities of the North Georgia league, and, as the figures are too large to overlook without serious consideration, a few of the postimers in Martin's circuit will find themselves sorely tempted to jump the organized game. The writer does not believe it is the avowed policy of the clubs in the new league to do anything that would hurt the game in Dixie's greatest association, but the desire is strong in their hearts just now to build up winning teams, and it's hard to dope the matter out.

RUTH MAKES HIS 17TH HOME RUN

Cleveland, June 13.—Before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game at League park, New York won the second game of the series from Cleveland, 14 to 0. Uple was driven from the box in the first inning and New York continued its hitting off Myers and Faeth. Ruth made his seventeenth home run of the season in the sixth inning with a drive over the right field wall that cleared a house on the opposite side of the street. No one was on at the time.

Tigers Win in Tenth.

Detroit, June 13.—Detroit climbed out of eighth place for the first time this season by winning from Philadelphia today, 4 to 3. The game went ten innings. Philadelphia scored three runs in the third, but the Tigers evened up by scoring one in the fifth and two in the eighth, when Veach hit a home run with a man on bases. A single and a triple in the tenth gave Detroit the winning run.

St. Louis Wins from Boston.

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—St. Louis continued on its hitting streak today, defeating Boston for the second straight time. The score was 11 to 5, errors starting the visitors toward all of their runs. Boston also fielded raggedly. Sisler sent the locals off in front with a single that scored Gedeon in the first inning and his home run in the third also came with a man on base.

UMPIRE BOMBARDED.

Jersey City, N. J., June 13.—The removal from the field of Umpire Corcoran by Police Captain Nugent during the first Toronto-Jersey City game today after he had been the target for a shower of pop bottles, was followed by the forfeiture of the contest to Toronto, 9 to 0, by Umpire Stockdale, who refused to continue in the game. Two players served as umpires in the second game, played under protest by the visitors, and won by Jersey City, 6 to 2.

The Jersey City players were displeased with some of Corcoran's decisions and in the fifth inning, when fans threw bottles, the police captain decided to escort the umpire from the field. Toronto was leading, 3 to 0, at the time.

TWO TEAMS TIED FOR TOP IN GA. STATE

The junior league of professional ball in the state—namely, the Georgia State league—has from the first been an object of interest to the various clubs of the Southern, as they are harboring several pastimers who used to star in President Martin's circuit, and, apart from this factor in its prosperity, it has further excited the interest of the fans of the state by the speed that it has exhibited since the season started.

The players, who have enrolled with the different clubs, are all well-known around the south and the larger leagues are keeping their eyes on a number of players to note when they qualify for the larger circuits. Several pastimers have already begun to prove their worth and the prowess that they have maintained renders them likely for faster company before the season is over.

The different teams appear so well balanced that a margin of less than four games separates the cellar custodians from the leaders. Cedartown held the lead for a long time, being lately shoved out of their perch by the Rome club, and now Carrollton has pushed its way up to the top and shares honor with Rome for the premier position.

For a long time Highpockets Herndon could not inspirte his team to win consistently, but within the last three or four days the acquisition of Walter Mittwede from Kauffman's fold and additional hope broke the losing streak until the Lindale club has relinquished the least desired place in the standing to LaGrange.

Red Smith has been smote with hard luck with his team, being forced to put a cripple line-up in the field. He has a winning club and when he gets players in their proper positions and with the players now on sick report back in harness, it is expected their lost prestige will take a leap upward.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Ring Wins Twirlers' Duel.

Brooklyn, June 13.—Cincinnati displaced Brooklyn from first place in the National league standing today by defeating the Superbas, 1 to 0, in an interesting pitchers' battle between Ring and Marquard. Each twirler allowed only 6 hits, but a wild pitch by Marquard and 2 hits in the sixth inning put over the winning run.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Cincinnati ......000 001 000—1 6 0
Brooklyn ....000 000 000—0 6 0

Batteries — Ring and Rariden; Marquard, Smith and Miller.

Cards Win from Giants.

New York, June 13.—The St. Louis Nationals made it two straight from New York here, winning by a score of 5 to 3. The St. Louis batsmen bunched hits on Barnes in the early innings and took a commanding lead. Doak weakened for St. Louis in the seventh inning, but Sherdell struck out King with the bases full. Catcher Clemons hurt a finger by a foul tip and was forced to retire.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
St. Louis .....110 210 000—5 9 0
New York .....010 000 200—3 8 3

Batteries—Doak, Scherdell and Clemons, Dillhoefer; Barnes and E. Smith, Gonzales.

North Ga. League To Open Soon

Since the business men of the smaller towns cannot get up to the cities to see as many of the professional games as they would like, they have adopted the only alternative offered them by bringing baseball to the smaller towns that they inhabit. It has long been the custom of these town to support the very best clubs that money can sign up, and every year record-breaking crowds cheer the home-town clubs to victory.

Wednesday is the day set for the opening of the North Georgia league, and the towns of Commerce, Winder, Elberton, Washington, Madison and Thomson have organized, enrolled a high-class array of talent, announced a schedule and the line-ups of the various clubs will be given out on Tuesday.

When the league was first proposed, the business men sent out scouting expeditions to procure managers and players. Their efforts have been successful, and now the league is ready to start, the teams have been selected from the best that could be signed up, and the dope favors the very fastest brand of amateur ball that has ever been put over in these towns.

Winder has signed a couple of players who have been in big demand, both in organized and amateur ball, all over the south. Bob Higgins, ex-Cracker pilot and receiver, will manage the club, and Milton Reed, the other sought-after player, will play on the infield. Other teams have signed up teams consistent with the strength of the Winder club.

Some fast games are expected to be played on the diamonds of the league. The opening day will find the clubs in friendly rivalry, turning out big crowds, while doubtless a contest will be on for the honor of passing the largest number through the turnstiles.

POLICY OF MEXICO AS TO OIL INDUSTRY

Mexico City, June 13.—General Jacinto B. Trevino, minister of commerce and industry in the cabinet formed by Adolfo de la Huerta, the provisional president, issued a statement today defining his official attitude toward the petroleum industry. This attitude, he said, would be "one of pure nationalism, based on definite, legitimate national interest, and giving protection also to legitimately created foreign interests, without distinction as to nationality." He added that he would ask the same counsel of all interested persons regarding his policy.

The petroleum industry, General Trevino said, is being steadily developed and there has been no complaint from the oil companies as to the conduct of the recent revolution.

He said 1,056 oil wells already had been drilled or were projected up to the present time and there are now 298 productive wells.

Trade movements between the United States and Mexico in the last ten months, General Trevino said, had increased 24,000,000 pesos over those of the corresponding period of the previous year.

He quoted figures showing that imports from the United States totaled 87,000,000 pesos between July, 1918, and April, 1919, as against 117,000,000 pesos for the corresponding months of 1919-1920. Exports to the United States were given as 131,000,000 pesos for the July and April period of 1918-1919, and 155,000,000 for the same period of 1919-1920.

HOMERUN FEELS FINE SAYS RUTH

By Babe Ruth.
(Copyright, 1920, by United News.)

Cleveland, Ohio, June 13.—Do you know the feel of a home run as your bat meets the ball with a solid, satisfying smack? Perhaps you recall your own ball playing days, when your club connected and you could tell by the feel of the blow that the ball was going for a long journey.

It's a great feeling. I always know the instant bat and ball collide whether I have done it again—whether I'll have to make a race for first base or whether I can afford to lope around the bases. Sometimes you chip the ball on the bottom. Your batter's instinct tells you it's a high fly or a high foul and that probably you're out. Or you may clip it on top or your swing may be downward, which will tell you that the drive will hit the ground on the infield.

But the feel of the home run is unmistakable. The nearest thing to it is the sensation when your driver swishes through the air and connects with your golf ball as it sits there on the tee. You know by the feeling when your drive is a long one, straight down the course, and, again you know, without looking, when you've done the other thing.

There has been some great home-run hitting at the Polo grounds this year, but I do not think the so-called rabbit ball has anything to do with it. There is a secret, however, that may explain some of these homers, including one of mine. You see, under this year's rules a ball that goes over the fence "fair" remains fair, even if it curves foul and lands on the foul side of the line on top of the stand. I am not able to say how many homers have really landed foul on the right field stand, but there have been several.

As every man strikes a slump some time, I suppose I may as well expect my home runs to fall of temporarily some time this season. Things happen that way in baseball. I may nearly break my neck swinging at a ball and then wonder how I ever missed it. It cannot be explained, but I certainly expect to break my record of last year.

WEEKLY FOOD TREND SHOWS SLIGHT GAIN

Last week's index number, based on the prices per pound of thirty-one articles used for food, is $4.89, which compares with $4.87 last week and $5.06 for the week ending June 10, 1919. This week's number shows a gain of four-tenths of 1 per cent over last week, but a loss of 3.3 per cent from the like week of last year.

Failures Last Week.

Commercial failures last week in the United States, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., are 178 against 101 week before last, 118 in the preceding week, and 99 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 10 against 16 week before last, 9 the preceding week, and 10 last year. Of failures last week in the United States, 71 were in the east, 37 south, 34 west, and 36 in the Pacific states and 81 reported liabilities of $5,000 or more, against 50 week before last.

Financial Flurries

The conservative investor in safeguarded First Mortgage Bonds is not worried by the recurrent financial flurries of the market. He knows that his investments are safe, that they are always worth 100 cents on the dollar.

True, his "paper profits" may be less than he may have made in some speculative venture, but he is saved the worry, annoyance and possible loss of principal and interest resulting therefrom.

Miller 7% First Mortgage Bonds are validated by Southern national and state banks authenticating the correctness of the issue. They are recommended as investments for trust funds, estates, and individuals desiring extreme safety with liberal interest yield.

Just call Ivy 844, and our representative will gladly call and explain why Miller First Mortgage Bonds yield 7% with safety.

Cotton Market Gossip

New Orleans, La., June 13.—The range of prices in the cotton market last week was narrow, the most active months working between limits of 58 to 72 points. This was mainly due to the decided change for the better in weather conditions and the refusal of the market to decline under the improvement, more or less of a deadlock resulting.

The highs and lows were well scattered over the past week. At the highest the trading months were 63 to 87 points over the close of the preceding week and at the lowest they were 2 to 29 over. Closing prices showed net gains for the week of 39 to 56 points. July closed at 38.46, which compared with 41 cents as the closing price on middling spots. Prices remained unchanged the week through in the spot department.

Warm and dry weather prevailed throughout the week just ended in the cotton belt and it was evident at the end of the period that the crop was doing much better as a result, although the only private bureau report on condition of the week put the percentage at 65.8, indicating a gain for the half month of only 1.8 points.

The better weather conditions last week aroused no selling power, while a moderate amount of buying was stimulated by continued complaints of boll weevil damage, increased talk of abandonment of acreage and the bullish twist taken by statistics. The feature in this direction was the decrease for the week in the visible supply of 115,376 bales against an increase this week last year of 50,192 bales, bringing forth predictions that within the next few weeks the visible supply would be smaller than it was a year ago.

At the end of the statistical week the visible of America amounted to 3,606,864 bales against 3,452,231 a year ago.

Private returns indicate domestic consumption for May of 560,000 bales against 480,000 last year, and the preliminary figures of one of the southern authorities pointed to an improvement of 1.08 points in the condition of the crop for the first half of the month.

The further decline in the price of silver has increased pessimism as to probable Far Eastern buying power, and it is reported that China has been cancelling contracts for goods in Lancashire. In this country, woolen and silk mills are said to be adopting short-time schedules owing to unfavorable trade conditions, but rather a better demand has been reported for cotton goods in Fall River this week, and New England mill production has increased slightly as a result of improved labor conditions.

Failure of Radicalism Gladdens Wall Street

By WALTER B. BROWN,
Editor New York Commercial.
(Written for the United News.)

New York, June 13.—Uncertainty regarding the political outlook is holding the stock market in check, and in ordinary presidential years would have a similar effect upon general business. Wall street has taken courage from the fact that radicalism has been forced into the background. The republican party has been the party of conservatism, and has chosen to make all the capital possible out of what it has declared to be the radical tendency of the Wilson administration.

The slowing down in general business here and there has been due not to any fear of political consequences so much as to the efforts of the banking community to limit loans to necessary business. Reductions in retail prices have occurred chiefly in wearing apparel, including shoes, but only to a limited extent in foodstuffs. Retailers have undoubtedly been taking advantage of the fact that consumers would pay any prices necessary to satisfy their desires, or, rather, that they paid them rather than forego the purchases.

The public, however, manifests an unwillingness to go beyond a certain point. This has thrown on the market speculative holdings of shoes having a vlauation of approximately $5,000,000, and a similar sale about to be made shortly of ready-made clothes, to be followed by other sales of silks and woolens. Naturally this has caused the wholesale textile trade, more than any other, to show a definite slowing down. Worsted and woolen yarn spinners have been requested to hold back deliveries, to say nothing of receiving actual cancellations of orders. Even in cotton goods there is less firmness, while a degree of uncertainly also exists in silk goods.

Opinions Differ.

Nevertheless, there is a distinct difference of opinion with reference to recent developments in the retail price situation. Wholesalers are exerting every effort to convince the public that these declines are not permanent. Those, however, who weigh facts from the standpoint of the economist rather than the trader feel that the peak of high prices has passed. As a matter of fact, it can hardly be otherwise.

The recent inflation has largely been due to the exhilaration of those who found themselves possessed of war profits, including the labor element with its largely increased wage scale.

Speculators had the idea that it would continue indefinitely, which accounts for the accumulation of some of the large stocks of commodities which are being turned back upon the market in the hope of at least receiving the initial cost. But this situation has now changed. The popular mind is discovering that economy is a necessity. The present break in commodity prices was sensed as long ago as last February by keen observers, and any stock market operators are declaring that the break in stocks which occurred then was based upon it.

The outstanding feature in the railroad situation has been the reduction in the usually stable dividend of the Chicago and Northwestern railway. It indicates the serious plight of the railroads. Figures recently submitted by Howard Elliott to the interstate commerce commission show that the war decreased the net operating income of the Baltimore and Ohio from $26,000,000 in 1916 to $5,000,000 in 1919; the Pennsylvania's eastern lines from $60,000,000 to $7,600,000; the Illinois Central from $19,000,000 to $4,000,000; the Southern from $22,000,000 to $10,000,000; the Chicago and Northwestern from $27,400,000 to $12,600,000, and the Northern Pacific from $33,000,000 to $17,000,000.

Increased Expenses.

These declines came about wholly through increase in operating expenses, the labor item being the greatest, although materials of every description have practically doubled in cost. The peak of commodity prices having been passed, as is generally believed, no further increases are expected to be made beyond the readjustments necessary, as in the case of the switchmen, who were not reached before the money gave out when the last increases were made.

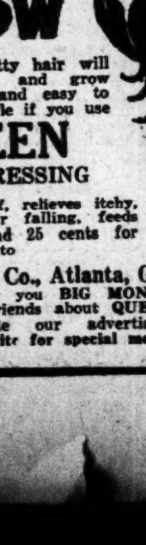

Regarding the money situation, high interest rates have been recognized in official circles, in the announcement that the secretary of the treasury in issuing two new series of certificates has placed the interest at 5 3-4 and 6 per cent, respectively. The secretary's report should be favorably received, in that there has been a reduction of both the national debt and the floating debt. There should be some fluctuations in the money supply during the next five weeks, for there will be approximately $1,000,000,000 in treasury certificates maturing on or before July 16, and, while the greater part of these are provided for by the income and profits taxes, installments payable in June, the withdrawal and redeposit of the funds cannot be accomplished without a temporary disturbance of the money supply.

Sterling exchange has strengthened considerably on the reports that arrangements have been made for the payment of at least Britain's share of the Anglo-French loan.

The stock market does not appear to be due for any great activity for the next few weeks, or at least until the nominations are all made and the campaign outlined.

PROPOSALS FOR PRINTING FOR THE STATE OF GEORGIA.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Secretary of State of Georgia in Atlanta until the first day of July after this date, June 10, 1920, for doing all of the public printing, binding, ruling, lithographing and engraving of the state as provided in Sections 1337 to 1345, inclusive, of Vol. 1 of Park's Code of Georgia and as set forth by the Act of the General Assembly of Georgia, approved August 10, 1919 (See Georgia Laws, 1919, p. 269, Sec. 2). The successful bidder will be required to give bond in the sum of fifty thousand dollars in a surety company authorized to do business in this state for the faithful performance of contract. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. Blanks for making bids, with specifications, will be furnished upon application to the Secretary of State.

EXPERIMENT STATION DOES SPLENDID WORK

Tifton, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—Although work for the first year at the Coastal Plain experiment station is necessarily largely work of preparation, it being necessary to clear the land, erect needed buildings, strong fences, etc., despite the scarcity of labor and the high price of building material, the preliminary work has made good progress, and quite a lot of experimental work has been done.

The station has experimented this year in eleven varieties of oats and eleven varieties of wheat. Both grain crops were good, the oats especially. Experiments are under way with seventeen varieties of corn and eighteen varieties of cotton; also experiments are being made in boll weevil poisoning with calcium arsenate.

With the new year, having necessary buildings and sufficient cleared land, Director Starr expects to conduct experiments on an extensive scale in all crops common to this section. Also in many new crops that may be adapted to this soil and climate.

Forger Sentenced.

Brunswick, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—W. L. As yet the young man has been unable to pay the fine. It is understood that he is wanted in other cities on a similar charge.

Millen Hospital.

Millen, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—The opening of the Millen hospital will occur July 4. The hospital was begun the early part of the year and is now about complete. The institution is capitalized at $30,000 and is modern in every particular. A big celebration will be held here in honor of the event and also commemorative of the fourth of July. A barbecue will be served by the directors of the Millen Hospital company and a baseball game will be staged also for the entertainment of the visitors.

COMMODITY PRICES DECIDEDLY LOWER

Dun and Bradstreet Report Lower General Prices for May and Past Week.

Improvement in the railroad situation growing out of the collapse of the outlaw railway strike, the efforts of the interstate commerce commission and the railways themselves to relieve the congestion due to scarcity of motive power and equipment, and the quieting down of trade which antedated the price-cutting move at retail, but which was accentuated by that movement, were all reflected in the movement of prices in May, which showed the most general trend downward since January, 1919, due to the quick subsidence of war demand after the armistice.

Bradstreet's index number as of June 1 was $19.8752, which marks a decline of 4.1 per cent from May 1 and 4.7 per cent from the peak point touched on February 1, but still shows an advance of 9 per cent over June 1 a year ago and of 12 per cent over August 1, 1914, which saw the beginning of the great war.

Generally easier conditions prevailed in the commodity markets last week, there being 40 recessions in the quotations received by Dun's Review, as compared with 13 advances, and a conspicuous feature was the reactionary tendency displayed by a number of the more important articles. Efforts of the railroads to improve transportation facilities, increased receipts, and encouraging crop reports had a depressing effect on the cash grain markets, lower prices for wheat and corn more than offsetting the continued firmness of oats and rye.

Supplies of dairy products were fairly liberal, but a steady consumptive demand and some speculative buying strengthened the best grades of fresh butter. Aside from this, however, there were no changes of outstanding importance. The price movements in live meats were confined within an unusually narrow range, desirable offerings of beef, hogs, and sheep about equaling the needs of buyers, but the general trend of provisions was toward a lower level.

The strength of iron and steel products was maintained, but quotations remained practically the same as a week ago. Tin declined, in sympathy with the weakness in the London market, but other metals in the miscellaneous group showed no alterations of consequence. Although irregular conditions in retail trade channels have caused some uncertainty in the cotton goods markets, material concessions in prices are not apparent. No improvement has appeared in business in either hides or leather, and the general undertone of both markets is decidedly easy.

Macon Starts Campaign Against Short Weight By Ice Wagon Drivers

Macon, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—The storm of protest which has arisen in Macon over the alleged practice of ice wagons of giving short weight and refusing to sell ice to customers who complained, has aroused the police to action and wholesale arrests will follow if the practice continues, it is declared. Already Chief Martin Thompson has assigned a number of plain clothes men to take up the trail of the ice men and where evidence of short weight is secured arrests will be made. It is understood chaingang sentences, instead of fines, will be imposed on the guilty parties.

The first arrest made in the campaign was that of Will Adams. A detective who trailed his wagon saw him make a sale of what was supposed to be one hundred pounds of ice. The detective weighed the ice after it had been placed in the refrigerator and found that it tipped the scales at only eighty-five pounds. As it was the first arrest Adams was permitted to escape a chaingang sentence by the payment of a fine of $25.

The retail price of ice in Macon has recently been increased from fifty cents per one hundred pounds to sixty cents.

MACHINE INVENTED TO COMBAT WEEVILS

Valdosta, Ga., June 13.—(Special.) D. D. Smith, a Valdosta traveling salesman, has invented an ingenious contrivance with which to fight the boll weevil and cotton growers who have seen it in operation, believe the apparatus is the best weapon yet found. Mr. Smith's invention consists of heavy hollow iron rollers, heated by gasoline flames, which are drawn like a plow between the rows of cotton, burning the weevil to death. A frame attached to the device, and drawn by one mule, extends in front of the rollers over the cotton rows, and carries a tank from which poison is sifted over the cotton, poisoning the weevils.

This frame also has wooden fingers which shake the cotton stalks, knocking off the weevils to fall to the ground and be stewed in their own grease by the hot rollers. The rollers have an asbestos covering to prevent injury to the cotton plant. Jets of flame issue from holes in the rollers, and play constantly on the ground, killing all insects and grubs. Mr. Smith estimates that the cost of the apparatus will not greatly exceed the cost of a good plow. The inventor has already received three patents on his apparatus, and will probably proceed to manufacture and market the invention.

SAVANNAH TO COMBAT INCREASED RENTALS

Savannah, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—General predictions here of advances in rents the coming fall are discussed everywhere in the city. It is said that dealers generally admitted that over the country rentals would be raised to make investments, at present increased cost of construction, yield 7 or 8 per cent. Several measures designed to prohibit extortionate and unjust rent charges have been prepared and will be given the Chatham members of the legislature for presentation at the approaching term of the Georgia general assembly.

Road Builds Motorcars.

Valdosta, Ga., June 13.—(Special.)—The Valdosta, Moultrie and Western railway is preparing to build motor cars at its shop in this city, for use on its own line, as well as for sale to other roads. C. L. Jones, manager of the road, says his company has been unable to buy motor cars, as the demand greatly exceeds the output, and in consequence has deterrmined to go into the business of manufacturing them. The first two cars to be built for use on the V. M. and W. railway will be equipped with twin motors of two hundred horsepower, and will be used for passenger and light freight service between Valdosta and Moultrie.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED DYNAMITING FISH

Miami, Fla., June 13.—Two men were blown to atoms and a third badly injured when eight pounds of dynamite exploded on board their boat in Middle river today. The dead are Ed Shackelford, of Fort Lauderdale, and E. S. Roberts, of Colahatchie, Fla. The injured: Henry Miller, of Fort Lauderdale. They had been dynamiting fish.

HE LIGHTED A CIGAR AND FIRED GAS WELL

Little Rock, Ark., June 13.—Eight persons, including six women, were burned, several seriously, late today, when a small gas well in the El Dorado oil field was set afire as a result of an attempt by a man in a crowd of spectators at its edge to light a cigar. The well was still afire tonight, and efforts were being made to keep the flames from igniting others nearby.

Gentlemen:-

Allow me to compliment you upon the Agnes Scott Silhouette. I think the seventeenth volume will be a monument to the printer's art. I believe it would make old Benjamin Franklin proud of his descendants. I have taken forty minutes of this busy Saturday morning to look it over and have covered every page, including the advertisements.

Taken altogether, it is as fine a piece of work as I ever saw and should be an everlasting credit to your plant.

Cordially yours,

JKO/b
